

BIG PLANT MAY COME TO CITY

Petition Before Municipal Council for Operation Here of Packing House

$3,000,000 Project Would Result in Giving Work to 1000 Men

Chamber of Commerce Submits Report Recommending Street Contract Work

A step that may result in bringing a concern to Lowell that will spend nearly $3,000,000 in reconstructing the plant of the Harvard company and the employment of upwards of 1000 men, was taken when a petition was received at a meeting of the municipal council today from Bartholomew Seannell asking that the establishment be licensed for operation as a packing plant. Mr. Seannell is one of the owners of the plant. No information is available as to the source from which the huge sum of capital involved in the enterprise is to come, but it is understood that it is to be largely supplied by one-of-a-kind parties, who are not connected with any of the "big five" packing concerns.

After Mr. Seannell's petition had been read, he was asked to address the council regarding the project. He said that it was planned to reconstruct the Harvard plant along the lines of that of the North Provision & Packing company, owned by the Swifts in Cambridge. Work of reconstruction, he stated, would probably begin the first of July if a permit to operate is granted. By the first of next year it is expected that the establishment will be in condition for operation.

Variety of Food Products

The plant, it was stated, will have a capacity for the slaughter of upwards of 400 beef cattle, 1000 sheep and 1000 hogs a week. These will be turned into a variety of food products. A complete deodorizing outfit will be provided. The report was referred to the board of health for further consideration and a report.

The unexpected application for the license was but one of several features of the meeting that furnished interest to one of the largest groups of spectators that has been in attendance at council meetings in a long time. Almost every seat in the gallery and around the sides of the chamber was occupied. Many of the spectators had gathered in the expectation that an election commissioner would be chosen. Many of the onlookers were former service men interested in the candidacy for the place of Eli Hart, a member of the legion. The council failed to take any action as regards an election.

Superintendent of Streets Dennis J. Murphy promptly set up and took notice when Secretary Manager George F. Wells, of the chamber of commerce was called upon by the mayor to present a communication from the chamber relating to the condition of the city's streets.

In substance the communication was as follows:

An Exhaustive Study

The streets and roads committee has made an exhaustive study of the cost of paving in other cities. Unfortunately a complete report of the cost in Lowell for 1920 is not available. No printed report has been issued by the street department since 1916. The best information we have been able to secure was given before the Lowell charter commission by members of the street department.

On Sept. 24, 1920, before the charter commission, Commissioner Murphy stated that he could not tell the number of miles of street paved.

SOCIETY HEARS MIKADO AGAIN

Many Attend Performances By Teachers' Organization in Opera House

Miss E. Irene Hogan, Dainty and Demure, a Delightful Yum Yum

The memory of many a gray head was turned back to the days of love and youth and the summertime, and there was doubtless more than one surreptitious touching of younger hands as Gilbert and Sullivan's tuneful tale of Cupid's ways and other ways, was unfolded in the production of "The Mikado" under the direction of the Lowell Teachers' organization in the Lowell Opera House last night. It was such a production as has set a high standard for future amateur performances to reach. It was the freely expressed opinion of members of the audience as they left the house, with the blazon of the customs and characteristics of old Japan still upon them, that it will be a pity if another year the Teachers' organization does not give the Lowell public a chance to witness

TO PAY UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE BENEFITS

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 1.—A bill to compel employers to pay unemployment benefits to their workers, which unemployed will be introduced in the legislature this week.

The measure was prepared by Prof. John R. Commons of the department of economics at the University of Wisconsin.

It would require employers to form mutual insurance companies and apply benefits to the workers they discharge at the rate of $100 a day for adult men and women, and 75 cents a day for boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 18.

The unemployed, provided they had worked at least 26 weeks, would be entitled to benefits for a maximum period of 13 weeks on the basis of one week for every four weeks of work.

Workers idle as a result of a strike or lockout, are not entitled to benefits and farm laborers are also exempt.

Explaining his bill, Prof. Commons recently told the local Rotary club that fear of unemployment was the moving impulse behind most labor difficulties. Remove that fear, he said, and labor difficulties would be reduced and production speeded up.

While his bill is designed primarily as an insurance, its real effect, he declared, would be to force employers to adjust their work so as to eliminate slack periods and depression in order to escape the burden of insurance benefits.

ASKS WILSON TO CALL MEETING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—A request from President-elect Harding that President Wilson call a special meeting of the new senate for March 4, was conveyed to the president at the White House today, by Senator Underwood of Alabama, the democratic leader.

Senator Underwood said he conveyed the message at the request of Senator Lodge. He saw Secretary Tumulty who later laid the request before the president.

LICENSE BOARD TO HEAR RESTAURANT KEEPER

At the meeting of the license commission this evening, Eugene Champagne, Thordite street, restaurant keeper, will be heard. Officers Conroy and Moore of the vice squad, have entered a complaint against Champagne relative to the incidents surrounding the arrest of three young men and three women from the Champagne restaurant on the morning of Jan. 16, who were found guilty of being lewd in speech and behavior in the local court. They are now awaiting trial in superior court on an appeal from reformatory sentences. Mr. Champagne has a common violator's license. The officers prosecuting the charge claim improper conduct on licensed property.

WHITE POLE AT ASSOCIATE HALL

After much agitation and a recent suggestion in the "Man About Town" column of The Sun, the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company has provided a white signal pole in front of the Associate hall building. The pole was installed yesterday.

Many people have contended that a white pole should be in front of the entrance to Associate hall so that people attending entertainments or dances in the hall could board cars or leave them directly in front of the hall, if they wished. Formerly, those riding up Merrimack street to Associate hall had to ride up past Worthen street to city hall and walk back. In coming down Merrimack street to the square, patrons would have to walk from the hall entrance down to Dutton street to board an electric car. Manager Thomas Lees considered a stop in front of the hall a great convenience and thought the suggestion of The Sun a good one.

INSTALL PASTOR OF ALL SOULS

Event Was First Joint Congregational-Unitarian Council in History

Charge to Rev. A. C. McGiffert, Jr., Delivered by His Father

Two Branches of Protestant Faith Join Hands in Common Worship

Two Protestant denominations, Congregational and Unitarian, were united under one pastor last night, for the first time in religious history, when the Rev. Arthur Cushman McGiffert, Jr., was installed with impressive ceremonies as minister of All Souls Congregational-Unitarian church. The service of installation was preceded in the afternoon by the convening of the first council of Unitarians and Congregationalists ever held for the purpose of appointing a joint pastor. All churches of the two faiths in this district were represented by delegates, and as a result of their vote Rev. Mr. McGiffert was chosen as religious leader for All Souls.

The charge to the new minister was delivered by Rev. Dr. Arthur Cushman McGiffert, his father. Rev. Mr. McGiffert, Sr., is a Congregationalist, and the president of the New York Union Theological seminary. The spectacle of father inducting son in this historic office, was the height of the dramatic.

Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, son of President-emeritus Eliot of Harvard University, and president of the American Unitarian Association, delivered

FORDNEY TARIFF BILL

Measure Has Begun to Resemble Wooden Ship Adrift in Barnacle-Infested Sea

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Fordney tariff bill, awaiting action in the senate, has begun to resemble a wooden ship adrift in a barnacle-infested sea. Every day sees encumbrances added to it both by its opponents and its friends, and the latter today began to see visions of it sinking beneath the waves from the weight imposed.

The latest acquisitions to the bill in the form of amendments appeared today in proposals to place an import duty on sunflower seed and on nails. Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, sponsored the sunflower seed tariff, and Senator Moore, republican, New Hampshire, presented the amendment which would protect America's nail industry.

The bill as it left the house provided for duties on about a score of products. Even senate clerks were unable to estimate the number of commodities that would be subject to additional tariff levies should all the amendments offered since the measure reached that body be adopted.

In the meantime the bill faced another round of debate today, some senators and probably its last full day, for tomorrow, the senate will be called upon to vote on the petition for closure or limitation of debate, presented yesterday by Chairman Penrose of the finance committee after unanimous consent for a vote on the bill Feb. 15 had not with objection to close down.

partially on debate and proceed to a vote on the bill will require approval of two-thirds of the senate and neither republicans nor democrats saw any chance of the petition mustering that much support.

SUGAR DROPS TO LOWEST PRICE IN TWO YEARS

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Arbuckle Bros. today quoted fine granulated sugar at 7 cents per pound, a reduction of 1 cent. The Federal Sugar Refining Co. also reduced its quotation to this level. The Federal Co. later announced a further reduction of 10 points, bringing the price down to 6.55 cents a pound, the lowest figure reached in over two years.

IMPOSSIBLE FOR GERMANY TO PAY

Reparations Demands, Says Foreign Minister

Dr. Simons Addresses Reichstag at Its Session This Afternoon

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Dr. Walter Simons, the German foreign minister, will tell the reichstag at its session this afternoon, the Borsenzeitung states that Germany cannot subscribe to the allied reparation demands, on the ground that they are not possible of fulfillment.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—It will be impossible for Germany to pay the amounts asked for her reparation debt to the allies, says Prof. John Maynard Keynes, principal representative of the British treasury at the Versailles peace conference. He argues that Germany, to have surplus exports worth 200,000,000 pounds must have total exports worth at least 700,000,000 pounds. Twelve per cent of this amount would be $4,000,000 pounds and, therefore, he says that, with 700,000,000 pounds of exports yearly against 500,000,000 pounds in imports she could just pay a fixed sum of 115,000,000 pounds plus $4,000,000 pounds, making a total of 200,000,000 pounds.

"That is to say," he continues, "trade on this vast scale would be required to pay the minimum amount of 100,000,000 pounds plus the export percentage. If this is proposed, it means that they mean a complete reorganization of the channels of international trade, if anything remotely like them should really be intended to happen, the reaction on British trade and industry would be incalculable. It is an outrage that the allied negotiators should have dealt with each other by using the methods of a poker party."

Norman Angell, author, lecturer and peace advocate, is quoted by the daily herald, organ of labor, as having characterized the reparation demands as "yeggwash, pure bunkum and fantastic rubbish."

"Of course," the interview continues, "there will be a hitch the first year and the second and the third, until the map of Europe is entirely altered and alliances are rearranged."

NATURALIZATION SESSION

Although there was no great rush at the naturalization session, which was held at the local courthouse this morning, Clerk William C. Dillingham was kept busy receiving and filing second papers. There were about 50 would-be citizens in the corridors of the building when the clerk arrived, and each man was accompanied by two witnesses, who at the regular court naturalization session will be sworn in as being of the type of men who should be granted the privileges of citizenship. There were four nationalities represented at this morning's session, Polish, German and English, the French and English predominating in numbers. It was expected at noon that this afternoon, the number of applicants would be as large as the morning. Tomorrow, Mr. Dillingham will receive first and second papers, and on Thursday first papers. If business warrants it, said Mr. Dillingham, he will return to Lowell Friday for first and second papers.

MILITIA CALLED OUT!

Looked Like That in Police Court Today — Soldiers A-plenty

One of the strangest sights ever witnessed in the local police court greeted spectators this morning when nineteen soldiers, from Camp Devens, filed into the prisoners' cage, filling it almost completely. The khaki-uniformed men were all charged with drunkenness, and Sergeant Raymond J. Kane was also charged with carrying a pistol without a permit. Exactly half of the other defendants pleaded not guilty to the charges of intoxication, claiming either that they were assisting companions who had been drinking, or that they had just arrived at the depot where most of the arrests occurred, to take the train to Ayer.

ICE CUTTING ON BAPTIST
POND COMPLETED

Employees of the Daniel Gage Co., who for the past week have been cutting ice on Baptist pond in South Chelmsford, completed their work last evening and today it was stated that between 5000 and 6000 tons of 12-in. ice had been stored in the houses of the company in that district. The cutting on Spectacle lake at Littleton is expected to wind up tomorrow, at which time it is hoped between 12,000 and 15,000 tons of that quality ice will have been stored away.

The ice on the Merrimack river is a little over seven inches in thickness, and unless a hot wave should intervene, cutting on the river will start next week. Miss Martine, district manager of the company, stated today that the ordinary harvest on the river is about 25,000 tons. The company is not running short of help, for every day hundreds of men call at the office in search of work. The wages of the ice cutters is about the same as last year and no increase in the price of ice is anticipated.

MANY STEEL CONCERNS
RESUME OPERATIONS

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—Many independent steel manufacturing concerns in the Pittsburgh district today resumed operations on what executives were united in saying was a cautiously conservative basis after about six weeks in which operations have been entirely suspended or greatly curtailed. It was predicted that within a few days operation would be about 50 per cent. of capacity, with prospects of increased activity if conditions warranted.

Of the 55 independent blast furnaces from which reports were received by steel authorities here, 21 were in operation while six mills increased operations.

Some of the business which brought about resumption was for the export trade, one order being for $1,000,000 for steel towers to be used in a wireless installation at Osaka, Japan.

From points outside the immediate Pittsburgh district came similar reports of increased operation.

Many plants resumed operations under changed labor conditions. In some instances wage reductions were accepted by the men, and in others the working time was reduced so as to bring operations within the limit of the eight-hour day and thus avoid time and a half pay for overtime.

SOCIAL GATHERING

A social gathering was held recently at the home of Miss Betty Snyder. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion in blue and pink. Piano selections were rendered by Mr. Harold M. Friedman. Master Bernard Knopf entertained with his original songs and dances. Mr. Edward Friedman made a big hit with his vocal solos. The exhibition dancing of Mr. A. Ziskind and Miss Cecelia Sood was well received. Among those present were the Misses Betty Snyder, Florence Shapiro, Rosalie Cohen, Shirley Banks, Florence Kilen and Cecelia Sood. Messrs. Harold Friedman, Samuel Green, Abraham Ziskind and Bernard Knopf. Refreshments were served and games were enjoyed by all.

Prof. Henderson is already at Grenoble, France, on leave of absence.

The supreme court of the state of Washington has fixed the minimum wage of women working in hotels and restaurants at $18 a week.

R. R. MEN APPEAL TO PRESIDENT WILSON

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—President Wilson was asked last night by representatives of seven labor unions to investigate the statement of Brigadier-General W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania lines, before the railway labor board that the railroads of the country must have wage readjustments or be in danger of bankruptcy, and if the statement were found true, to place the matter before congress and ask that body to enact remedial legislation immediately.

The union leaders, however, in their telegram to the president making the request, declared they did not believe the roads to be in the financial condition outlined by Gen. Atterbury. They charged that he had, by doing what they termed "an ultimatum" to the labor board, "violated all decent proprieties, disregarded the transportation act and flouted existing agencies, such as the interstate commerce commission and even congress itself."

"Gen. Atterbury's obvious policy," the telegram said, "is to disrupt labor unions, turn public opinion against the employees and place wages on a pre-war basis so that railway profits may be enhanced when prosperity returns. The shippers would have to pay increased rates and the laborer would be exploited if Gen. Atterbury had his way."

GO TO RESCUE OF COAL BARGE

SANDWICH, Feb. 1.—The storm which drove the empty coal barge Hoxford and Oxford on the Cape Cod canal breakwater yesterday, had abated today sufficiently to permit tug boats to go to the rescue of the Hoxford, the third barge of the tug Triton's string.

The Hoxford, after drifting to within 200 yards of the spot where her sister ships stranded, was riding safely at anchor. The tug anticipated no difficulty in picking her up and towing her into the shelter of the canal.

The Hoxford and the Oxford were being slowly pounded to pieces today. Wreckers, however, hoped to be able to salvage at least one of them if the weather continued to improve. The wind today was still blowing from the northeast but had moderated considerably.

HAD TERRIBLE COUGH AND NIGHT SWEATS

Cough about gone, eats and sleeps well and gained 12 pounds

"In December, 1913, I had a fearful cough, and my physician ordered me to change climate immediately. I went to San Antonio, Texas, and entered a sanatorium. Left there and came to Oklahoma City in October, 1915. Had no appetite, could not sleep, had night sweats and was losing from one to three pounds a week. I also had catarrh of the bowels, which the doctors had been unable to relieve. I had a relative urge to try Milks Emulsion. I did so and began to improve, slowly at first, but steadily. My weight has increased 12 pounds. I have no temperature, and my cough is about gone. I can eat heartily, sleep well and am working at my trade again."—V. W. Neff, 610 No. Dewey st., Oklahoma City, Okla.

Sufferers who wonder in fighting off disease, if given the chance, Milks Emulsion is a powerful help in providing strength and flesh. It costs nothing to try.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and purgatives. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved.

This is the only solid emulsion made, so palatable that it is eaten with a relish like a cream. If you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee: "Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 75c and $1.50 per bottle. Five bottles for $7.50. Write to J. C. Terry, Ind., sold by Fred Howard and all first class druggists.—Adv.

FIND CHARRED BODY IN ENGINE'S FIREBOX

WORCESTER, Feb. 1.—The charred remains of a man were found here yesterday in a firebox of a locomotive in the roundhouse of the Boston & Maine railroad. Disappearance of William O. Trudson, 27, of 1 Alter street, machinist at the roundhouse, led the police and medical examiner to believe that the remains are those of Trudson. It is thought Trudson luried himself into the furnace.

About five years ago, while living in Hartford, he slashed his throat in an attempt at suicide and since then his speech has been affected.

OBSERVE FOUNDING OF
CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

The First Baptist church was the scene of the 40th anniversary of the founding of Christian Endeavor last evening, when more than 300 members and friends of the Lowell Christian Endeavor union heard an address on "The Sunday House" by Daniel A. Poling, S. S. of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. A banquet was another feature of the occasion.

Two-minute talks were delivered by Edward Babcock, pastor of the First Baptist church, Chester A. Nelson, chairman of the lookout committee of the Cape Ann Christian Endeavor union, Ernest A. Collins, secretary of the Haverhill union, Harold W. Pedder, vice president of the Haverhill union; Rev. John Singleton, pastor of the Lawrence St. Primitive Methodist church and counsellor of the Lowell union, Leo H. Stevens, president of the Essex county union; Russell J. Blair, president of the Middlesex County union and C. C. Hamilton, field manager of the Christian Endeavor World.

At the conclusion of the after-dinner speeches, a rally service was held in the auditorium. The guests were welcomed to the church by Miss Marie Amador, secretary of the First Baptist Christian Endeavor society, and Ormond E. Coburn, vice president of the Lowell union, replied for those present. The singing was in charge of Harry E. Heckman, industrial secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

Rev. John Singleton and Rev. Edw. Babcock led in a devotional service, and this was followed by an anthem sung by the Pigrim quartet, comprising Harry Haley, Herbert Waterhouse, Thomas Veennard and Gerald Miller. Roll call for Lowell was read by Miss Alice M. Dowrey, secretary for this city. A resolution asking that moving pictures here be investigated was turned over to the citizenship committee. The resolutions were the work of the Highland Congregational society. President A. Edwin Wells, president of the Lowell union, presided during the program.

Dr. Poling in his address told how Christian Endeavor had its inception in the mind of Dr. Francis E. Clark, and how it now embraces more than four million members. A poem by the speaker closed his address. The verses eulogized the spirit of C. E.

DISPUTE OVER PAYMENT

Exporters and Buyers at Odds Over Paying of $40,000,000

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 1.—Advancing exchange rates and decreasing prices during the last few months have resulted in a dispute over payment for between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000 worth of American merchandise which is either tied up in the Argentine customs house or is on its way to this port. This statement was made by Horacio de Varela, a lawyer, who addressed the second annual banquet of the United States chamber of commerce.

He discussed the possibilities of solving the conflict between American exporters and Argentine buyers over the acceptance of this merchandise and payment without loss. In his opinion no general measure such as government intervention or collective loans could remedy the situation. He declared the solution was to be found only in private agreements, each party accepting necessary losses to save all it was possible. He also discussed the unfavorable atmosphere created by the questionable practice of a small number of North American exporters, saying there was no foundation for this atmosphere as a general thesis, but that in certain instances the facts were not all that could be desired.

The practice on the part of some North American firms, which developed during the war in settling to Argentina improvised agents who were without standing, was condemned by Senor Varela, who said it was a mistaken conception that business could be arranged and a correct understanding of commerce in this country obtained in a few weeks.

"In connection with the belief that in a few weeks an opinion can be formed of a country, its people and its excellencies or defects," he declared, "we should not live of combatting this manner of thinking."

The danger of the United States losing its advantageous position in foreign trade through the lack of an international policy was dwelt upon by Senor Mitre, director of La Nacion, in a letter read at the banquet.

Senor Mitre praised the efforts of the chamber to prevent passage of the Fordney emergency tariff bill by the United States congress.

MEMORIAL SQUARE THEATRE

Those who were fortunate enough to witness Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zorro" that was exhibited yesterday and which will run for the first three days of the current week, departed with that feeling of satisfaction that they had seen by far the best picture in which the vigorous Douglas had appeared. It can readily be seen that he has spared no expense in the assurance of creating the best there is to further the cause of entertainment. There is a strong romance containing love, action and adventure. The picture is given a very vivid insight of the time before the California became a part of the United States. "Zorro" has placed upon the screen a very important role in the history of the state.

The picture is a very important role in the history of the state. It is a story of a man who was born in the United States, but who lived in California during the time when the state was a part of Mexico. He was a man of great courage and skill, and he was known as "Zorro". The picture is a very important role in the history of the state.

ACADEMY

Two large audiences greeted the opening performances of "The New Musical" at the Academy yesterday afternoon and evening. This London musical comedy is especially constructed for merit and laughter, and in the hands of a capable cast, with Mark Lee in the leading role, the reception given the efforts of the performers at the matinee and evening shows yesterday points to another success for the Academy. With the first three days of the week. As in last week's bill the leading comedy part is assigned to capable hands, and Mark Lee carries the fun in large packages and distributes it liberally throughout the various incidents in connection with the scenes and situations that go into it. In hand in revealing the story told in the lines of this London comedy. His work is well balanced by the songs and dances of the chorus, in which Ruby Lanchester and Doris Leung join, both of whom work enthusiastically and with good results. While the girls' chorus gives abundant pleasure in its several selections and dances, the work of Messrs. Lee, Hall, Hodge and Collins, in quartet numbers, is exceptionally well done and is deserving of the recognition given by the audience. The evening performance is attractive and with pretty stage settings assists in the general harmony of the production. This afternoon and evening for the Academy. The Academy elected a member of the County Board of Supervisors. At present Mr. Hyatt is Assistant Superintendent of the Albany County Courthouse, with offices in the building.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the pains struck me every time I took a step. My legs, hips and ankles hurt something awful and my joints were stiff and aching. I couldn't cross my leg without having to lift it. I was with my hands, and to turn over in bed, why, the pains nearly killed me."

"My appetite was gone and the slightest food nauseated me. My stomach was out of order, and I had a sluggish, heavy feeling all the time. I was weak, off in weight and discouraged so that it looked like I might as well quit trying to ever get well."

"I had no idea Tanlac would relieve my rheumatism when I began taking it last Spring. I took it because I saw where it would give a fellow an appetite. Well, sir, I was the most surprised I ever was in my life when the rheumatic pains began to ease up. I took seven bottles in all and it's a fact, I didn't have an ache about me, was eating fine and simply felt like I had been made over again. I have been in the best of health ever since, with only a slight twinge of rheumatism at intervals. I do not need my cane now, but as I had been unable to walk without it for several years, I got into the habit of carrying it and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can confidently recommend Tanlac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative; by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

PROMINENT NEW YORK MAN PRAISES TANLAC

John F. Hyatt, of Albany, N. Y., Is Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism of Many Years' Standing.

JOHN F. HYATT
227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.

"I am now seventy-two years old and am just getting rid of fifteen years' case of rheumatism that had me so crippled up I could not walk," said John F. Hyatt, 227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y., in relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac, recently. Mr. Hyatt was chairman of the committee in charge of building the Albany County Courthouse and was four times elected a member of the County Board of Supervisors. At present Mr. Hyatt is Assistant Superintendent of the Albany County Courthouse, with offices in the building.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the pains struck me every time I took a step. My legs, hips and ankles hurt something awful and my joints were stiff and aching. I couldn't cross my leg without having to lift it. I was with my hands, and to turn over in bed, why, the pains nearly killed me."

"My appetite was gone and the slightest food nauseated me. My stomach was out of order, and I had a sluggish, heavy feeling all the time. I was weak, off in weight and discouraged so that it looked like I might as well quit trying to ever get well."

"I had no idea Tanlac would relieve my rheumatism when I began taking it last Spring. I took it because I saw where it would give a fellow an appetite. Well, sir, I was the most surprised I ever was in my life when the rheumatic pains began to ease up. I took seven bottles in all and it's a fact, I didn't have an ache about me, was eating fine and simply felt like I had been made over again. I have been in the best of health ever since, with only a slight twinge of rheumatism at intervals. I do not need my cane now, but as I had been unable to walk without it for several years, I got into the habit of carrying it and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can confidently recommend Tanlac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative; by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

IRELAND IS NOT SECEDING

It is one thing to oppose the recognition of the Irish republic by the United States on logical grounds, but quite another to misrepresent actual conditions and even falsify the facts of history in an effort to trump up apparent arguments against any action looking to the recognition of the Irish republic.

Yet the latter course is the one taken by our neighbor, the Courier-Citizen, when it argues that because we were opposed to European powers recognizing the confederacy in our Civil war, we cannot logically favor the recognition of the Irish republic.

In taking that attitude the editor of the Courier-Citizen casts logic to the winds and voices only the sentiments of Lloyd George and the Tory portion of the British press.

There is no parallel between the case of Ireland and that of the seceding southern states. The confederate states had voluntarily joined the Union and then decided to withdraw or to secede. Not so with Ireland, however. The Irish nation never joined the British empire, so called, and cannot therefore secede from it. On the contrary, Ireland has vigorously protested and fought against that union ever since it was imposed upon her.

It is true that the British claim possession to Ireland under the "supposed right of conquest," first under Henry II in 1172; again under Cromwell in 1649; still again under William of Orange in 1691, and in order to give the supposed union an official existence on paper, England in the year 1800, by one of the most scandalous feasts of corruption known to history, had the act of union passed transforming the government of Ireland to London, where it could be conducted more effectively in the interest of England.

For that act, the Irish people were not responsible. They had no part in the compact as England had the necessary number of votes primed and packed for the purpose. They were all her own minions.

Ever since that act was passed, the people of Ireland have protested against it and they have since led no fewer than five rebellions in order to overthrow their bondage to England.

In 1916 they declared for a republic and they have since overthrown the British courts and established a system of courts of their own. It is a mistake to suppose that the republic consists of what Lloyd George calls a "band of murderers" who attack the British police on the ground that they are invaders on the soil of Ireland. These men constitute the republican army. It is true they have adopted guerrilla warfare; but every country fighting for freedom selects its own methods of warfare. Moreover, this army is backed by 90 per cent of the people, as that was the proportion of the electorate that sustained the Sinn Féin in the last election.

England, therefore, cannot claim that Ireland belongs to her by right of long continued and undisputed possession. Since it takes about 200,000 British soldiers, police and an array of disreputable going about applying the bomb and the torch to property, over two years to suppress the Sinn Féin republic and when even yet, the courts-martial are the only British courts now functioning in Ireland, it is evident that nothing but the might of England presents the republic from regularly performing all the functions of government.

Justice of Ireland's Claims Ignored

What seems to be lost sight of and ignored absolutely is the question of right and justice as between Ireland and England.

Undenably Ireland has absolute justice on her side in claiming the right to freedom for which she has struggled for seven hundred years. If her case has a parallel in American history, it is that of the colonies in asserting their right to freedom and independence and their taking up arms to cast off the British yoke. Fortunately for them, they were farther away from England than Ireland, as otherwise they could not have won their freedom.

But as to the justice of their comparative claims, Ireland's case is much stronger than that of the colonies because she has been immeasurably more oppressed and her claim is of longer standing. If compared with other nations that have achieved their freedom, Ireland's claim will also be sustained.

Norway, Denmark and Switzerland are all free nations and none of them has a population equal to that of Ireland. The area of Ireland is one-third greater than that of Belgium and Holland combined and about equal to the area of Denmark and Switzerland combined.

One of the reasons for Ireland's demand for freedom, and for one of a great many, each of which would justify her course in trying to cast off British rule, is found in the tribute paid to England in taxation in addition to the suppression of industries.

We hold, therefore, that the cause of Ireland is just and that there can be no argument against her claim to freedom or her present revolt, except that which would uphold the power of might over right regardless of all considerations of justice. Denmark the war much was heard of self-determination for subject nations and, strange to say, there seems to be a disposition to recognize this principle in every case except that of Ireland. Yet the cause of Ireland is the cause of liberty and democracy for the world over.

AGAINST DISARMAMENT

Now it comes to light that England, that is so very anxious to hold our high esteem—more for her own benefit than ours—is not prepared to go on with the movement for disarmament. She disillies the idea of a triple alliance for the reduction of armaments, particularly because it applies only to her and her principal ally, Japan, in addition to the United States. An agreement to disarm at this time would interfere with England's construction of warships on which she is busily engaged. If England agrees to disarm or to stop increasing her armament, the compact should apply to all parts of the empire as any naval units acquired by Canada or Australia belong primarily to England in case of war.

The present administration at Washington had better leave the question of disarmament to be settled by the incoming administration which will have to deal with it eventually. Just at present it is not so sure that disarmament would serve the interests of this nation.

The London Times is already out with a plan for the establishment of an "intercolonial fleet," the purpose of which is to bring the colonies into closer union. Whether this means simply a merchant fleet to engage in trade between the colonies is not clear; but Jamaica is mentioned as one of the colonies to receive special attention. This is probably another step to offset the possibilities of the American merchant marine.

TO BOOST NEW ENGLAND

In the interest of New England a movement has been started to make the city of Boston an objective point for American and European tourists. It is true that Boston has a great many attractions in addition to its historic interest. It seems that the efforts to make the port of Boston more influential as a shipping centre are not meeting with much success. If the establishment of a tourist bureau would help Boston, it would also help New England, whose interests are being slighted not only by the steamship lines, but also by commercial interests in congress and elsewhere. The south and the west are in competition with New England; and it appears they are maintaining a form of competition that calls for united action in self-defence on the part of all the New England states. Unless these states hang together and guard their common interests, they may lose their supremacy in various important industries in which the south and the west are now ambitious rivals.

THE POOL ROOMS

As it appears that some of the pool rooms of Lowell are little better than "hang-outs" for youths who live by their wits, it is time the police adopted some method of keeping track of the habits of such places. They should have some means of singling out the suspicious characters who visit the pool rooms in order to keep track of them. Of course, with the great number of people at present unemployed, no reflection can be cast upon the honest, law-abiding people who want to spend a few hours in a pool room. But the dangerous characters mix in with these, and thus bring the best pool rooms into disrepute. The Sun has repeatedly pointed out the dangers to which young men are exposed in visiting some of these places in which the pool tables are but a cloak to cover various forms of gambling.

The fact that they have made their headquarters at local pool rooms is a bad recommendation for these places of rendezvous for young men. It is time for the police to keep an eye on these loafing places in order to prevent their being made the trying places of thieves, bandits and gunmen.

The Shortest Month

In the old days when the Roman calendar had nothing else to worry about, they did something to the calendar. And February, it appears, was a victim. Originally this perfectly good month had 30 days in leap years and 29 in other years. February is from the Latin, meaning "to purify." It was the custom of the Romans to celebrate the festival of purification in the month of February. In the year 45, Julius Caesar named July in his own honor—he saw to it that there were 31 days in it. Then along came Augustus, and a month was named for him, also. But August had only 29 days. So Augustus looked around and picked on February, which had no one particularly to defend it. He just took a day off February and added to his own pet month. That's why February is so short. It has but 28 days, and why August has 31, in keeping with the dignity of its imperious namesake.

Simple Remedies in Vermont

I've heard that whilst the war was on, And lots and lots of doctors gone, That folk were sick, back months and days For therapeutic means and ways: The simple remedies once more Came forth to heal the sick and sore: The Scriptures say, "The herb was made For man," and loings to lend him aid.

A-thinking back a bit I see Exactly how it used to be: Of corner of a pantry shelf, Was set aside as sacred space. For things to cure each kind of case, That folk were sick, back months and days, With paragon going strong.

A boy back then that had a cold Did pretty near as he was told; He looked his fever down to bed, Or took some camomile instead; And when he coughed that croupy cough, Enough to shake his ear-muffs off, Some homey old, with molasses mixed, That fairs membrane quickly fixed.

A stuffed-up bosom had to yield With onion steam took the field; Roasted apples on you see, Soon made the pain part disappear; A daisied poultice—not a cake—With all the water it would take, "As good for you" make a hill Or synarthrodial aid or ill.

'Twixt catnip, sage and ginger tea, No choice obtained that we could see, Although for bottles we were free; We strained some honey on the sage; For something "long the mite line," Lobelia always acted fine.

It had more "lift" up and glow Than all the uplift clubs I know. Our cupboard had a draw beneath For twisted strings that dealt with teeth.

The family pinners, too, was there That once belonged to Dr. Thayer; Their little vials was plenty stout To pull a hedgehog feather out. And in the right-hand corner lay The eyestones that are mine today.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Says our good friend "Uncle Dudley" of the Boston Globe, "It would not be any particular reflection on a high school student were he unable to tell the name of his own county." I doubt if we are quite so ignorant as that in Lowell. There are a lot of things, though, that we should know about our own neighborhood, and we do not know, perhaps because we do not want to be instructed in our high school during school days. Our high school graduates could probably all of them tell us something about the Phoenicians; the wars of Julius Caesar; the landing of the Pilgrims and the most important events in our revolutionary and Civil wars. But how many of them could pass a creditable examination on the history of Lowell? While their minds are mooning about events that happened on the shores of Bosphorus or on the banks of the yellow Tiber, how many of them know anything about the trips that Thoreau made in his canoe down the Concord river to the site of Lowell, or of some of the things that he wrote about the people of Billerica? Every day our children are educated by the loud and whining monument in City Hall square. How many of them can tell the name of the commander of the regiment that marched through Balldore on that momentous April day when the first blood of the Civil war was shed, and how many can tell without stopping to think, of what other transcendently important events in American history have happened on the same day of the month? How many of the youngsters know anything about the history of the Middlesex canal, that was a mighty undertaking in its day? Would it not contribute to their education fully as much as though they learned that some old pagan named Aethelred was once king of the Saxon hierarchy if they were to be taught the "Colonel" of the Middlesex canal, who was the engineer who held out the Middlesex canal, and gave his name to the Baldwin apple, and why he did so? The field of useful and instructive information right here at home is almost unlimited.

Large numbers of Lowellites find an instructive way to employ their leisure moments in attending the police court sessions. An education in the outlines of legal procedure is afforded those who follow the trial of cases, and so, well as this fact, the trial of the most important cases are crowded at the most important times. It is quite evident that the men and women who form an audience are not recruited from the ranks of the unemployed, but are engaged in employment which does not require their presence at the court sessions. They are a truly well dressed and of intelligent appearance. And they go, by their occasional glances, into the methods by which the machinery of the law moves.

Paquin pleaded guilty. Murphy, who hails from Providence, R. I., has been seven years in the service, while Patrick Ganley, of the same city, a lad of 17 years, enlisted in the army two months ago. Albert Paquin is also a minor, being 18 years of age, and three months in the service. He was asked by Judge Enright whether he had not been before the court before, and he replied in the affirmative, but added smilingly that it was for stealing apples.

Several of the men who pleaded not guilty hotly contested the testimony of the arresting officers. Sergeant Nicholas Mulhall, who rode of his own volition to the police station in the patrol car, "to get the boys out," was arrested when he arrived there. He claimed that he was perfectly sober. Daniel Kiernan, who was Mulhall's companion in the expedition to rescue their friends, was also taken into custody when the station was reached. He asserted his sobriety, although admitting having had a few drinks. Corbett, who had been in the home until he had been taken to the station, 10:30 p. m., then going to the station for the train. Here, he said, he was taking care of a comrade when he was locked up. The officers could not remember O'Brien individually, but declared that every soldier arrested had been under the influence of liquor.

Edward J. Crowell questioned the officer who claimed to have arrested him. "Did you arrest me at the station last night?" he said. "Yes," was the reply. "No, you didn't," returned Crowell. "I was pulled in on the street after the patrol had left the station." The officer then admitted that he had been mistaken, and that Crowell was arrested elsewhere than at the station.

"We want to get these facts straight," said Judge Enright. "We don't want to find an innocent man guilty just because he was with a bunch of soldiers who were intoxicated." Joseph Boulanger, the officers said, diffused an aroma of moonshine, and was unsteady on his feet. But Boulanger averred that he had never touched a drop of liquor in his life, and offered to procure witnesses who would attest this assertion. Andrew Zeithes, accused of being misty on his feet and also aromatic with liquor, said "I took care of two men. That's sober I guess," was at the station until 10:30. Of Sergeant Leblanc, who repeated their statement that "all the arrested men were under the influence of spirits."

Others who pleaded not guilty were John L. Bratton and Sergeant John F. McGinn.

Kane, of whom a Colt army automatic was found, new appeared on the charges of unlawfully carrying a gun. He admitted having the weapon, but said he had taken it from McGinn, who was "flashing it rather freely." McGinn, who had remained silent, now admitted on being questioned that he had brought the gun from camp without authorization. "I was to take the prisoners away today; that's why I had it," he said. The cartridge clip on the weapon was missing, and Kane said he did not know this when he received McGinn of it. Kane said that it was his duty as a non-commissioned officer to take any weapon from another enlisted man who did not seem capable of keeping it in his possession without menacing others. He was found not guilty on the charge and pleaded guilty to the drunkenness charge.

"Now tell the truth. Where did you get this liquor?" asked Judge Enright. All the defendants united in saying that they had purchased it from civilians who approached them on the street. One of the soldiers told of a man asking him $2 a quart. "I gave him $1 for the first bottle," he said, and I didn't give him anything for the second."

"There has got to be some check put on you men," declared Judge Enright. In placing the cases on file, "There has been much trouble and disturbance due to your actions in this city. However, as you are all first offenders, I am going to let you go this time, giving you a record. But the officers were perfectly justified in placing you under arrest. You were using language in the presence of women there at the railroad station, which in your right senses you would not allow any man to use in the presence of your mothers or sisters."

Big Plant May Come to City

her of yards of pavement laid this year although his department had spent $23,000 for new paving. City Engineer Kearney stated that he could not tell the number of yards of pavement laid or the cost per yard, but he thought that the cost would be about $10 per square yard for granite block and $1 per square yard for macadam.

"Clinton P. Tuttle, clerk of the street department, stated before the charter commission, Sept. 8, 1920, that the paving on Fletcher and Boston streets cost $15,122.35 for 2356 square yards. This would be $6.45 per square yard. He also stated that the paving on Lawrence street cost $15,513.60 for 1356 square yards. This would amount to $11.45 per square yard.

"Mr. Tuttle also stated that the cost of labor on these two jobs up to Sept. 15th amounted to $15,115.80. Chairman Casey stated that according to the city auditor's office there had been paid in pay rolls for permanent paving, from April to August inclusive, $28,204.43. Mr. Tuttle was unable to explain the discrepancy but stated that the paving on Boston street was done by the streets department, while the paving on Fletcher street was done by the city engineer's department. On the basis of Mr. Casey's statement, adding the additional amount charged in the auditor's office for labor, the cost would amount to $9.54 per square yard.

May Be Subject to Change

"We must bear in mind, however, that these figures were made up to Sept. 15, 1920, and may be subject to change when the final report is completed. In fact, Mr. Tuttle stated before the commission that the continuation of Lawrence street would cost $2 per year more on account of the necessity of using new granite blocks.

Cost of Paving in Other Cities

"Lawrence, R. I., 1919, new granite blocks, $12.50 per sq. yd., from $3.30 to $2.25. The work was let to the lowest bidder, the Worcester Engineering Co., at Worcester, Mass., 1919, new granite blocks. A contract was let to the Worcester Engineering Co., at $3.75 per square yard. This price covered the taking up of the old blocks, re-laying the new, making the necessary excavation for a concrete base and laying the blocks on concrete with grouted joints.

"Taunton, Mass., 1919, granite block—Work done by the city for $5.07 per sq. yd. Work done by contract for $5.95 per sq. yd. Cost varies slightly, depending on the location of the work.

"New Bedford, Mass., 1920, granite block. Cost $5.50 per sq. yd., including all grading. Endurite, cost $3.62 per sq. yd., complete, including excavation. Work done by contract.

"Lawrence, Mass., concrete block, 1920—6111 sq. yds., cost $4 per sq. yd., including macadam, 60,122 sq. yds., cost $1.50 per sq. yd., including macadam, 11,254 sq. yds., cost $1.93 per sq. yd., for laying plus 30 cents for scarfing or preparing the road prior to laying the composition. Total, $2.23 per sq. yd. All work done by city labor.

The Resolutions

"The streets and roads committee, after considering the information secured, have submitted to the board of directors of the Lowell chamber of commerce the following recommendations:

"Whereas, out of a total of 15,247 miles comprising a principal state of the city of Lowell, which have been personally examined by representatives of the chamber of commerce, 4,665 miles thereof are in very poor condition, 5,663 miles thereof are in fair condition, 5,771 miles thereof are in good condition and 1,111 miles thereof are in excellent or very good condition, and

"Whereas, the improvement in said streets and highways during the past ten years is not commensurate with the amount of money expended thereon, and

"Whereas, the Lowell chamber of commerce is of the opinion that the methods employed by the city of Lowell in constructing and repairing said streets and highways is not in keeping with sound business principles,

"Whereas, it is resolved, that the Lowell chamber of commerce recommend to the municipal council, that it supplement its methods of construction of said streets and highways with a program of construction for each year and enter into contracts with road building concerns to carry out the same. And in addition thereto, to establish a sufficient number of permanent repair crews to keep all of the streets and highways in the city in a safe and satisfactory condition.

"At a meeting of the board of directors of the Lowell chamber of commerce, held on Wednesday, Jan. 25, 1921, the above resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted and the secretary was instructed to present the same to the municipal council at its next meeting."

Wells to Know Author's Name
When Mr. Wells has finished reading a summary of the report, Mr. Murphy said: "When I read a book, I like to know who the author of it is; whether he is a standard author; I should like to know the names of the authors of this report."

Secretary Wells: "I cannot tell the names of all of them off hand. A thorough survey of the streets was made by competent engineers. The condition of the streets was observed by a committee of the city engineer and the city engineer's department."

Mr. Murphy: "I want to know who made the actual survey."

Mr. Wells: "I will send the information to the council later."

The mayor, who was quietly reading the report, interrupted to say: "I am astounded by the comparative summary of the cost of granite block paving in Lowell and other places."

Mr. Wells explained that some of the figures were based on an estimate of paving costs given by Mr. Murphy before the charter commission.

Mr. Murphy: "That estimate was a guess. I am now preparing an accurate estimate of the cost of paving during the year 1920."

The mayor suggested that members of the chamber's committee that formulated the report should appear before the municipal council and furnish information as to the cost of the work and make up the budget for the year.

Mr. Wells said that representatives of the chamber would be glad to do

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HAIR

Tell Her She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbos Compound and 4 ounces of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—Adv.

cept the invitation, and the commission was referred to the commission on streets.

Pass Big Loan Order
The $10,000 loan order, the proceeds to be used for bridge construction, that was introduced into the council a couple of weeks ago, has since been advertised in accordance with the provisions of the city charter, which through the council as though the ways had been graded.

When the order had been read by the mayor, Mr. Murphy explained that the proceeds would be largely used for rebuilding the Centralville bridge, and that the conditions under which the money was to be spent were well known to his fellow members of the council.

Mayor Thompson said that he had been assured by Louis E. Moore, bridge expert for the state, and City Engineer Stephen Kearney, that when the work on the bridge is completed it will be practically equal to a new bridge that would cost $400,000. He said it would last for many years. The total cost of the repairs would be about $30,000. The loan order was passed unanimously.

Wants $60,000 More

Commissioner Murphy offered another order calling for the loan of $60,000 to be used for bridge construction. Part of this sum, it was stated, will be needed to complete the repairs on the Centralville bridge. The order was referred to the city clerk with instructions to advertise it in the newspapers.

The mayor read the annual report of the auditorium building commission in which a complete statement of the commission's activities up to date was given, together with a description of the building as it will be when completed, a statement of financial transactions, and the promise was held forth that the commission would be able to turn the completed building over to the city at a cost within the original appropriation.

A claim against the city for damages to personal injuries was received from Jeremiah D. Sullivan. He alleged that he had lost two fingers of his right hand as the result of an accident Jan. 4 in the West Fifth street pumping station. The claim was referred to the mayor and city solicitor.

The Booz Problem

A letter was received from City Solicitor William D. Regan, transmitting the report of personal injuries received by the building as it will be when completed, a statement of financial transactions, and the promise was held forth that the commission would be able to turn the completed building over to the city at a cost within the original appropriation.

All but one of the bills the solicitor reported as follows:

"I believe the recommendations therein contained and the bills therein referred to are all and severally sound legislation, and ought to receive the support of this community in common with others throughout the community."

On house bill 882 the solicitor reported that he believed that it should receive the attention of the council.

The solicitor was authorized to appear at legislative hearings on all of the bills and favor their passage.

The solicitor was also authorized to appear in favor of a legislative bill authorizing the licensing of vending machines.

Asks to Be Pensions
A request was received from Police man Will Breault asking that, after 35 years' service on the police force, he be retired on a pension, alleging that he is no longer in physical condition to perform the duties of his position. A certificate from the city physician certified to the applicant's inability for duty. It was ordered that the city solicitor prepare an order placing Mr. Breault on the pension list.

Thomas J. Murphy was appointed a weigher in the purchasing agent's department.

The sum of $241.59 was appropriated from the prior revenue account to pay the bills for the celebration of Armistice day.

A communication was received from Frank Goldman, attorney for David Solomon, asking for reimbursement from the city for damages resulting from a defective sewer in Howard street. Referred to the mayor and city solicitor.

The council adjourned to meet in regular session again next Tuesday morning.

LABOR UNIONS
A largely attended meeting of the Loomfitters' union was held last evening, and a feature of the meeting was an address by Vice President Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers of America, who spoke at length on the spin silk mill, which is soon to be erected by the textile mills of Massachusetts. Mr. McMahon also touched upon the reduction in wages of 22 1/2 per cent, which went into effect some time ago, and said the time is coming when the unions must take action to resist the reduction of the Merrimack valley, Lowell, Lawrence and Manchester, N.H., will join forces.

KILLS HOLD-UP MAN WOULD CALL WORLD COTTON CONFERENCE

Collector Attacked By Armed Robber Takes Gun Away and Shoots Assailant

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 1.—Held up at the point of a gun in the narrow stairway of his home, Orin Lane, 35 years old, assistant superintendent of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company in the Providence district yesterday grappled with the hold-up man, wrested his gun from him and turning it on the robber shot him dead.

Among Lane's duties was the collection each day of the receipts from a store of 17 stores. He had collected $2000 from 17 of these stores during the morning and at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon arrived at his home, at 257 Plainfield street, in the Olneyville district of the city. He carried the money with him in a leather bag.

Lane lived on the third floor of a three-story house and after eating his dinner took the bag and started down the narrow stairway to the street. He had descended one flight and was passing through the corridor to the bottom flight when he heard footsteps coming up the stairs. Just as he reached the top of the first flight he came face to face with a strange man, who was about to step from the top tread of the stairway to the landing.

As Lane met him the man shouted: "Hands up!" Lane says he saw the man was rather frightened by the sudden meeting and did not raise his hands. The man then repeated the order, Lane told the police. With the second command the man flashed into view, and Lane says he made a jump for the man and seized the gun, wrestling from the man's grasp.

Shoots Him Twice

The stranger, according to Lane, immediately began beating him in the face and over the head with his bare fists, while Lane holding the bag of money in his left hand, tried to beat him off with the butt of the gun. Lane pulled the trigger. The bullet hit the stranger in the leg, and according to Lane he turned and ran down the stairs.

Lane told the police that by that time he was excited and again fired and hit the stranger in the back of the head as he was fleeing down the stairs. The man fell in a heap at the foot of the stairs.

During the scuffle Lane had been crying out for help and his wife, Cressa, hearing the shouting, rushed out of her apartment and started down the stairs. She arrived at the top of the first flight just after the second shot had been fired and the stranger had dropped dead at the foot of the stairs.

She rushed back to her apartment and called the police. In a short time the police and Medical Examiner Dr. A. J. L. Lefebvre arrived. The man was dead and according to the police had evidently died from the effects of the bullet which struck him in the back of the head.

No Identity Marks

Lane later in the afternoon was taken to police headquarters, where he was questioned and arraigned before a special session of the sixth district court before Judge Howard Gorham. He pleaded not guilty to a charge of manslaughter and was released in bonds of $1000, furnished by his own company. His case was continued until Feb. 11.

A thorough examination of the dead man failed to reveal his identity and the police finally took finger prints in an attempt to identify him either in navy and police circles.

The dead man was about 22 years old, weighed 160 pounds and was five feet seven inches tall. He had gray eyes, excellent teeth, smooth, full face, medium light hair, broad forehead, wore a dark blue suit which had been bought in a local store. He also wore a black overcoat with belt, black silk socks, black lace shoes that had been dyed, and a brown soft hat. In his pocket was a white handkerchief with black polka dots.

In his pockets were found five loaded cartridges of the same caliber and number as those in the 35 calibre revolver that Lane wrestled from him. A brand new blackjack was also found, as was a blue bandana handkerchief, which the police say was folded in the shape of a mask to be used for the face.

The police believe the man apparently was not expecting to meet Lane so suddenly in the stairway, and was not quite prepared for the hold-up. The police also are of the opinion that he had an accomplice waiting outside with an automobile, in which the loot

MAN WOULD CALL WORLD COTTON CONFERENCE

Robber Takes Gun Away and Shoots Assailant

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 1.—A leading cotton-grower has sent a cable to Sir Charles Macara urging that a world cotton conference be called without delay, to deal with the situation arising from the decline in the price of fibre and the threatened 60 per cent. reduction in acreage under cotton, says the Manchester Guardian.

In the course of an interview, Sir Charles, who is one of the largest cotton manufacturers of Great Britain said:

"Cotton has fallen a long way below the cost of production, and the inevitable result will be that a great curtailment in the acreage devoted to cotton will follow. I have contended for many years that cotton is a commodity which, if properly packed and stored, can be kept for years without deterioration."

"A recommendation such I made at the outbreak of war, that the surplus cotton should be taken over by the government, interested, should be adopted now. This would save the situation. If action is not taken, we shall have a repetition of what occurred in the early days of the war, when American cotton fell from 7½ pence to 4 pence a pound, involving all concerned in heavy losses, and subsequently rose to 45 pence, increasing the price of the world's cotton crop by $1,000,000,000 and raising the price of clothing enormously."

"We are undoubtedly suffering from the press campaign of 'slump' the restriction of credit to bring about forced sales, and the government excess profits duty, which, instead of encouraging industry, has had the effect of strangling it."

"These are the factors mainly responsible for the present dearth of business, from which, however, there is bound to be a great reaction. Both 'boom' and 'slump' are equally pernicious. What is wanted is a readjustment of values."

GASOLINE AND KEROSENE CUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Reduction of one cent a gallon in the price of refined oil for export was announced yesterday by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

Gasoline in cases was reduced from 10.75 to 9.75 cents a gallon, kerosene from 10.50 to 9.50 cents, for standard white in bulk and in barrels from 24.50 to 23.50 cents a gallon.

Pennsylvania Oil Reduced
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—The principal oil purchasing agencies yesterday announced a further reduction in price of crude oil.

Pennsylvania crude was cut 50 cents to 45 a barrel. Canebl was reduced to $3.71; Somerset light to $3.75; Somerset to $3.50, and Flagland to $3.75, a reduction of 25 cents.

MANY BRITISH SEAMEN DESERT

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Large numbers of English seamen are deserting their ships in American ports and joining American vessels because of the higher wages they receive from American shipowners.

One magistrate before whom one of the deserters was arraigned called the practice "scandalous" and said it was prejudicial to Britain's mercantile service.

The man in question was fined 45 and costs and his wages were impounded.

WHIPPING POST FOR ROBBERS

DOVER, Del., Feb. 1.—The Delaware state senate yesterday passed a bill making the penalty for highway robbery 15 years on the hard back, not less than 20 years imprisonment and a fine of $500.

A meeting of the Women's association of the Eliot church was held today morning session, which was held at 10 o'clock, consisting of sewing for charity, the work being done in the parish house. At 12:20 o'clock luncheon was served and at 2 o'clock this afternoon the members listened to a very interesting address on "India. Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," by Mrs. Alden Clark of India.

There was to have been taken away had the robbery been carried out as apparently planned.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barker

THE SLIPPERS OF FORGETFULNESS

Again Nick and Nancy were prisoners of the wicked Bonadil man who was trying to prevent them from getting to the South Pole; and the iceberg was nothing more nor less than his own great ice-bergs which he had caused to break away from the ice-field at the North Pole and come floating through the ocean.

And the Jim had turned himself into a great white polar bear.

As soon as the twins had gone through the trapdoor to the roof and descended the Jim charged from a bear into an old woman. The Jim you know, was a wicked wizard who could take any form he wished.

Nick knew now who their host was to Nancy and to ask the Green Shoes to take them both safely away when the old woman burst suddenly at the little girl's feet. "You must be cold," could not interfere. It was too late to warn Nancy now. Of course he could have wished himself out of that at leaving his sister alone. No, he must stay with her always.

But had he known what the little red felt slippers were, he would not have allowed the old woman to take his own Green Shoes away, nor to place a pair on his own feet, like those she had given to Nancy.

They were the slippers of forgetfulness, and instantly the twins forgot about their errand.

"PAT" HARRISON SHOWS

PEP IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Fighting Pat. That's what they call Pat Harrison, senator from Mississippi.

At present Pat is fighting for the championship belt in the filibuster class.

The dictionary says a filibuster is "A member of a legislative body who obstructs or prevents action by the extreme use of dilatory tactics, such as speaking to consume time."

There's no doubt about Pat being a filibuster. He admitted after speaking one week against the emergency tariff bill that he hadn't said a thing.

Much More To Say

"I have much more to say than I have said thus far," he said as he drew his second breath. "However, I'm a good soldier and will do what is for the country."

Pat's only 33, the baby of the senate. He doesn't seem a bit awed by the age and experience arrayed against him. He's young at heart. Had the time of his life tripping up his ponderous opponents.

Golf? Horseback? Not for Pat. "They're old men's games," he says. "Baseball and hunting for mine."

Pat studied law while he taught a country school in Mississippi. He was admitted to the bar in 1912. Married in 1915. Has three children.

Elected district attorney in 1905. Went to congress in 1910.

Defeats Vandaman

Battled Vandaman for senatorial nomination in 1915. Pat wore his hair short-clipped and had a good war record. Vandaman had long hair and his war record wasn't so good. Decision to Pat. Elected by 55 per cent. of state's votes.

Held the whip hand in the senate for Cox's nomination at San Francisco convention.

His term as senator doesn't expire until 1925. He will probably be re-elected. Many times.

He signs his name Pat. But he was christened Byron Patton Harrison. You'd never know it if you didn't look him up in Who's Who.

Negroes are gradually returning to the southern plantations from which they had been driven to the cities by high wages.

CAMPAIGN TO MAKE SWITZERLAND DRY

GENEVA, Feb. 1.—A campaign to make Switzerland dry has been undertaken by the Swiss Anti-Alcoholic League. Its first step, it is announced, will be to demand a federal referendum authorizing the Swiss cantons to exercise local option.

The prohibitionist leaders here say that recent unofficial balloting indicated that a large number of the cantons would vote to become dry if the issue were presented to them.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR PROFITEERING

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Profiteering and hoarding are now punishable in France. The head of a firm that charged 127 francs for repairing an old stove has just been sentenced to serve a month in prison, to pay a fine of 1,000 francs and to have the sentence posted at the firm's door for seven days. An expert appraised the value of the repairs at 27 francs.

BIG PLANT MAY COME TO CITY

Petition Before Municipal Council for Operation Here of Packing House

$3,000,000 Project Would Result in Giving Work to 1000 Men

Chamber of Commerce Submits Report Recommending Street Contract Work

A step that may result in bringing a concern to Lowell that will spend nearly $3,000,000 in reconstructing the plant of the Harvard company and the employment of upwards of 1000 men, was taken when a petition was placed at a meeting of the municipal council today from Bartholomew Scannell asking that the establishment be licensed for operation as a packing plant. Mr. Scannell is one of the owners of the plant. No information is available as to the source from which the large sum of capital involved in the enterprise is to come, but it is understood that it is to be largely supplied by one of town parties, who are not connected with any of the "big five" packing concerns.

After Mr. Scannell's petition had been read, he was asked to address the council regarding the project.

He said that it was planned to reconstruct the Harvard plant along the lines of that of the North Provisions & Packing company, owned by the Scannell family. Work on the reconstruction, he stated, would probably begin the first of July if a permit to operate is granted. By the first of next year it is expected that the establishment will be in condition for operation.

Variety of Food Products
The plant, it was stated, will have a capacity for the slaughter of upwards of 400 beef cattle, 1000 sheep and 1000 hogs a week. These will be turned into a variety of food products. A complete deodorizing outfit will be provided.

This report was referred to the board of health for further consideration and a report.

The unexpected application for the license was but one of several features of the meeting that furnished interest to one of the largest groups of spectators that has been in attendance at council meetings in some time. Almost every seat in the gallery and around the tables of the chamber was occupied. Many of the spectators had gathered in the expectation that an election commissioner would be chosen.

Many of the onlookers were former service men interested in the candidacy for the place of Ed Hart, a member of the legion. The council failed to take any action as regards an election.

An Exhaustive Study
The streets and roads committee has made an exhaustive study of the cost of paving in other cities. Unfortunately a complete report of the cost in Lowell for 1920 is not available. No printed report has been issued by the street department since 1916. The best information we have been able to secure was given before the Lowell chamber commission by members of the street department.

On Sept. 21, 1920, before the chamber commission, Commissioner Murphy stated that he could not tell the number of miles paved.

ASK ALLIES FOR RECOGNITION

Russian, Constituent Assembly to Make Application to U. S., Britain and France

Russian Elements Opposed to Bolshevism United to Fight Soviets—Kerensky Aids

PARIS, Feb. 1 (by the Associated Press).—Formal application is about to be made to the governments of Great Britain, France and the United States to recognize the Russian constituent assembly as the rightful existing government of Russia. The assembly has just been created at a meeting here of all the Russian elements opposed to Bolshevism with the purpose of sinking all differences of opinion and presenting a united front against Bolshevism.

The precedent invoked will be the recognition by the allies of the 1917 Russian government set up on the island of Corfu during the war while Serbia was completely occupied by the central powers.

Thirty-three of the members of the assembly created here were elected in Russia in the latter part of 1917 by popular vote. These elections were held under Bolshevik rule and the Bolsheviks failed to obtain more than 40 per cent of the seats. Lenin, the Soviet premier, dissolved the assembly on Jan. 18, 1918, when his followers were placed in the minority and many of the members left Russia but many went to fall. Those who escaped regrouped in Paris and formed the assembly which adopted resolutions containing these provisions:

1.—A declaration of the principle of the liberty of the Russian people in opposition to Bolshevism.

2.—Refusal to recognize any and all treaties, including commercial agreements, made with the Bolsheviks as one of the parties. (This would entail repudiation of the agreement between the Bolsheviks and Washington B. V. for a concession in Siberia.)

3.—The assembly is against armed intervention in Russian affairs. It favors commercial relations between individuals in Russia and other countries but not with the Bolshevik government, and also favors lifting the blockade.

4.—The assembly is against dismemberment of Russia and the secession from Russia of any of its former provinces.

In connection with the fourth clause the assembly inserted an expression of "profound gratitude" to the United States and referred especially to the noble secretary of State Coghlin on August 10, 1920, in which he said the United States government was opposed to any dismemberment of Russia.

A permanent executive committee including M. Kerensky, was appointed to draw up resolutions to present to the allied governments.

This committee has members of the Soviet, Cossack and Free Russian parties who claim that not only were they elected by the vote of the Russian people in Russia, but also that they represent from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 Russian exiles and refugees. They will ask the government to fix the status of those refugees who are disseminated throughout Europe especially in France.

SUGAR DROPS TO LOWEST PRICE IN TWO YEARS

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Archie Brod today quoted fine granulated sugar at 1 cent per pound, a reduction of 1 cent. The Federal Sugar Refining Co. also reduced its quotation to this level.

The Federal Co. later announced a further reduction of 15 points, bringing the price down to 6.55 cents a pound, the lowest figure reached in over two years.

ASKS WILSON TO CALL MEETING

President-elect Harding Requests President to Call Special Session of Senate

Conveyed to, White House By Sen. Underwood, the Democratic Leader

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—A request from President-elect Harding that President Wilson call a special meeting of the new senate for March 4, was conveyed to the president at the White House today, by Senator Underwood of Alabama, the Democratic leader.

Senator Underwood said he conveyed the message at the request of Senator Lodge. He saw Secretary Tumulty who later laid the request before the president.

Such a session is customary when there is a change of administration, and it usually lasts only a week at most, its purpose being to confirm appointments.

The president-elect's request was contained in a telegram received by Senator Lodge.

A call for a special session of the new congress will be issued by Mr. Harding after his inauguration. It is expected that it will begin late in March or early in April.

PRES. WILSON TAKES UP APPEAL OF R. R. UNIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—President Wilson received today and took under advisement the telegram sent him from Chicago last night by representatives of seven big labor unions asking that he investigate claims of railroad spokesmen before the railroad labor board that unless there is a readjustment of wages, the railroads face bankruptcy.

To Hear Employees' Side
A CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Steps to hasten a decision on the railroad labor board on the railroad's plea for immediate abrogation of national agreements with the Brotherhoods were taken today.

Chairman Barton of the board announced that Thursday had been selected for hearing the employees' side. It was expected that H. M. Jewell, retiring president of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, would state the Brotherhoods' viewpoint.

SKATERS AH-OY! ICE HAS BEEN SCRAPED

Fond of skating? Yes. Then get out the old runners again, wipe off the rust, have a new edge put on them, if necessary, and journey over to Shedd park tonight. "Take along your skis, or someone's else skis. If you are so inclined. Superintendent of Parks John J. Keenan has had a gang of men at work all day getting ready for you. They have been scraping off the snow that fell during the recent storm, which he says was three inches deep. By tonight it is promised that the area will be one-half cleared, and by tomorrow afternoon the whole surface will probably be ready for use. The freshly scraped ice is said to be in exceptionally good condition.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 1.—Carl Wetman, pitcher, turned out for St. Louis American League club he had retired from baseball because of ill health. He already had signed a contract for the forthcoming season.

INSTALL PASTOR OF ALL SOULS

Event Was First Joint Congregational-Unitarian Council in History

Charge to Rev. A. C. McGiffert, Jr., Delivered by His Father

Two Branches of Protestant Faith Join Hands in Common Worship

Two Protestant denominations, Congregational and Unitarian, were united under one pastor last night, for the first time in religious history, when the Rev. Arthur Cushman McGiffert, Jr., was installed with impressive ceremonies as minister of All Souls Congregational-Unitarian church. The service of installation was preceded in the afternoon by the convening of the first council of Unitarians and Congregationalists ever held for the purpose of appointing a joint pastor. All churches of the two faiths in this district were represented by delegates, and as a result of their vote Rev. Mr. McGiffert was chosen as religious leader for All Souls.

The charge to the new minister was delivered by Rev. Dr. Arthur Cushman McGiffert, his father. Rev. Mr. McGiffert is a Congregationalist and the president of the New York Unitarian Theological seminary. The spectacle of father inducting son, in this historic episode, was the height of the dramatic.

Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, son of President-elect Eliot of Harvard university, and president of the American Unitarian association, delivered the following address:

THINKS PATIENTS WHO CAN SHOULD PAY
The cost of maintaining patients at the isolation hospital and the fact that it is believed that some persons who are in a position to pay part or a whole of the expense of their maintenance are showing a disposition to shoulder the whole burden on the city, together with the question as to what part of the cost of caring for inmates shall be assumed by the state is troubling officials at city hall.

The various questions were the subject of a conference last night at which members of the board of health and Mayor Thompson were present. This afternoon the mayor is in conference in Boston with Dr. W. J. Gullivan of the tuberculosis department of the state department of health on the part of the program that relates to the removal of the city by the state for the care of patients.

It is stated that the cost of maintaining patients at the hospital is at least $50 per week. They are fed much better, it is claimed, than people in the average home. The very best of beef, eggs and other foodstuffs are bought for them. Only high-grade coal is used, and this is supplied in unlimited quantities.

The mayor feels that it is only fair that persons who can pay for their treatment should do so, in order that care may be given to a larger number of persons who are without means. He admits that there is now legal machinery for the collection of the bills from those able to pay them, but that it has never yet been resorted to.

The mayor believes that before a patient is admitted to the hospital a complete investigation should be made to determine financial resources, and that this information should be fully set forth on the application blanks.

Under the law the state contributes $5 a week toward the support of patients in the hospital. The mayor is uncertain whether the state is obligated to pay this sum for each patient, or only for those who do not pay anything toward their own support. He thinks that the state should pay the $5 for every patient that more funds might be available for the care of indigent cases. This is one of the subjects that he is discussing with Dr. Gullivan this afternoon.

SOCIETY HEARS MIKADO AGAIN

Many Attend Performances By Teachers' Organization in Opera House

Miss E. Irene Hogan, Dainty and Demure, a Delightful Yum Yum

The memory of many a gray head was turned back to the days of love and youth and the summertime, and there was doubtless more than one surreptitious touching of younger hands as Gilbert and Sullivan's tuneful tale of Cuni's ways, and other ways, was unfolded in the production of "The Mikado," under the direction of the Lowell Teachers' organization in the Lowell Opera House last night. It was such a production as has set a high standard for future amateur performances to reach. It was the freely expressed opinion of members of the audience as they left the house, with the illusion of the customs and characteristics of old Japan still upon them, that it will be a pity if another year the Teachers' organization does not give the Lowell public a chance to witness

MILITIA CALLED OUT!
Looked Like That in Police Court Today—Soldiers A-plenty

One of the strangest sights ever witnessed in the local police court greeted spectators this morning when nineteen soldiers from Camp Devens filed into the prisoners' cage, filling it almost completely. The head-uniformed men were all charged with drunkenness; and Sergeant Raymond J. Kane was also charged with carrying a pistol without a permit. Exactly half of the other defendants pleaded not guilty to the charges of intoxication, claiming either that they were assisting companions who had been drinking, or that they had just arrived at the depot where most of the arrests occurred, to take the train to Ayer.

Police officers testified that the soldiers were creating a disturbance and committing nuisances at the railroad station, using profane and improper language. John Perry, Marjorie Sholl, John Burns, Francis J. Murphy, Patrick Conley, Joseph M. Hogan, Eugene Godue, Sumner Welsch, and Albert

Guard Jail Where Kidnappers Are Held
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—A special squad of deputy sheriffs with others held in reserve, today guarded the county jail where Floyd L. Carr and Arthur W. Carr, cousins, who confessed to kidnapping Mrs. Gladys Withereff, were held after their plea of guilty in court, last night.

Months of bad feeling in the Hollywood district, where Mrs. Withereff lives, caused the sheriff to take every precaution against possible mob violence, he said.

The Carrs pleaded guilty about 13 hours after Mrs. Withereff was rescued from a ranch near Corona, about 70 miles southeast of here, where she had been kept a prisoner since last Tuesday night.

AT CLARK UNIVERSITY

Dr. Wallace Walter Atwood
Inaugurated as President

Today

WORCESTER, Feb. 1.—Seventy-five educational institutions and the east and middle west, sent representatives to the exercises attending the inauguration of Dr. Wallace Walter Atwood as president of Clark university today.

President Atwood, who has occupied chairs of geology and physiology at the University of Chicago and Harvard university, and for many years has been connected with the United States Geological Survey, in his inaugural address announced that hereafter Clark university would specialize on the providing of facilities for the study of geography in its broadest sense.

Pointing out the need of a thorough knowledge of geography in connection with present day commercial and industrial problems, he said:

"We shall offer to teachers, to men entering large business enterprises, especially international trade and to all those who wish to enter consular or diplomatic service, special facilities in the study of geography. We must look forward to developing an institution which will be a great bureau of information regarding the present condition in this and distant lands. We shall welcome special students, explorers and authors who wish to make Clark university library their headquarters while they are preparing manuscripts for publication."

"This nation has closed the period of isolation and become one of the great world powers. We must now have at our command a knowledge of the geography of the world."

The exercises were opened with invocation by Rev. Maxwell Savage, President Charles H. Thurber of the board of trustees told of the founding of Clark university by Jonas Gilman Clark as an institution of advanced study and research and of the provision in his will for the founding of Clark college, with a separate faculty but using the same buildings and managed by the same trustees "to make easier the road for worthy and ambitious young men who needed a college training."

Dr. Thurber said that with the passing years the line of demarcation between the two institutions had become fainter and that the simultaneous resignation of President G. Stanley Hall of the university "that he might prepare for publication by accumulated treasures of scholarship and research" and of President Edmund C. Sanford of the college to return to his professional duties resulted in the decision to bring the two under a single head. "The history of education in America," he said, "records many curious and interesting events, but nowhere does it mention an instance where one man at the same moment has been inaugurated as the second president of a university, the third president of a college, and the first president of both."

President Atwood was installed by Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg of the Massachusetts supreme court. Addresses followed by William J. Higginson on behalf of the students and by Clarence P. Shedd for the alumni.

Dr. William H. Burnham, bringing the greetings of the faculty, and the key words of Clark university were "The scientific method, research, liberty, individual autonomy."

"Some of the wise," he said, "fear that the problems of civilization today are too big for the human intellect. In recent years we have devised mental tests and an elaborate machinery for measuring human intelligence, but we find alarmingly little intelligence to measure. To raise the measure of human intelligence is at best a slow process. The scientific method, however, offers hope for a combined offensive movement that will save our civilization."

Addresses by President Harry Pratt Johnson of the University of Chicago; Dr. Frank Norley of Johns Hopkins university and Gov. Channing H. Cox of Massachusetts followed and then President Atwood delivered his inaugural address.

Nova Scotia's Drinking Men Well Served

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 1.—Nova Scotia's drinking men took "a stitch in time" and are smiling today despite the fact that the order in council prohibiting importation of liquors into the province became effective last midnight.

KINGDON COULD SUE FOR $500,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Existence of a $500,000 suit in which Kingdon Gould, youngest son of George Jay Gould, is charged with breach of promise to marry Mary M. Blum of Arkville, N. Y., was disclosed today in a report of supplementary proceedings begun in the state supreme court.

Mr. Gould appeared in court and denied statements made by Mrs. Blum, who asserted that he employed detectives to gather evidence on which she obtained a divorce in June 1919. She previously had agreed, she said, to marry when she was free and were on friendly terms until his marriage to Miss Annunziata Lucel in July, 1917. She further charged that he offered $10,000 to settle the case after the suit was filed several months ago and that she refused.

The court directed both sides to submit all papers in the case next Saturday.

WOMEN'S CLUB

Miss Elizabeth Deering Hanscom Talks on Shakespeare

"We are told that cheap and nasty plays are what the public desires," said Miss Elizabeth Deering Hanscom, Ph.D. of Smith College, yesterday afternoon before the Middlesex Women's club, "but when at rare intervals someone has the courage to put on a Shakespeare play, the result seems to contradict that statement." The subject taken by Miss Hanscom, who is professor of English language and literature at the famous college for women, was "Shakespeare of the Past or the Present." She was formerly a Lowell girl and her father was in the newspaper publishing business in this city.

The vast succession of scenes which constitute Shakespeare's plays, and which are as numerous as the stars in many a moving picture scenario, she attributed to the conditions of the Elizabethan stage. In the days when the virgin queen reigned, and the Bard of Avon wrote and acted, stage decoration was in its infancy. A sign with the words "A Heath" was sufficient to designate the blasted heath which was the habitat of Macbeth's witches. By exposing a sign with the words "A Street in Rome," the theatrical managers of that day satisfied their audiences, who supplied with their sixteenth-century imaginations what painted canvas and gilt-painted props must now show to our present-day realism-loving theatre-goers.

Fortia, Rosalind, Beatrice and Imogen are not merely women of yesterday, said the lecturer, we find Portia, Rosalind, Beatrice, and Imogen in our own circle of acquaintances. Presumably the category may be extended to include Cressida and Lady Macbeth.

In her stressing of the reality of Shakespeare's women, Miss Hanscom fell in with the thesis of Frank Harris, the most astounding and therefore probably the truest of Shakespeare's biographers.

The "melancholy Jacques," she declared, is the writer of many modern books. At least one commentator has held that Jacques was not only this but was Shakespeare himself.

FAT MEN AND LEAN IN OPEN CONTEST

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Congressman Winslow of Massachusetts will be the star performer at an entertainment to be given Thursday afternoon by the National Press club at Keith's theatre. The program includes a debate between two heavyweights of the house and two bantams of the senate to decide the momentous question: "Is it better to be fat or lean?"

Col. Winslow has been selected to lead the question and will be assisted by Conq. Tichenor of Kansas who tips the scales somewhere around 200 lbs. When the correspondent asked Col. Winslow how much he weighed, the Worcester congressman winked one eye knowingly, and replied: "I weigh enough to qualify—and if that don't satisfy the audience they can start a guessing contest." Newspaper men here say they are willing to stake their reputation as forecasters that Colonel Winslow will easily pass the 350 pound point which they fix as Tichenor's standard. The lean side of the debate will be handled by Senators Pat Harrison of Mississippi and Ashurst of Arizona, both of whom reach more than six feet up in the air, but whose perimeters don't strain a tailor's tape line when their girth is taken.

SIMPLE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of cologne powder, any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. No matter how many they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and are extruded from the body that form in the pores of the skin. Pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores and do not get them out after they have been had. Cologne powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anybody troubled with blackheads, especially if they are on the face, should certainly try this simple method. Adv.

When she got to the table to eat she did not want anything, while her mother who was so hungry she could hardly wait for her dinner. The doctors gave her medicine but it did not help her. So she went to the drug store and got a bottle and after the second one she could eat and has not had backache since. In all she took six bottles of it. 42 YEARS IN PRISON

Sarah Wyckoff, Aged 70, Dies in State Prison—Had Declined Pardon 5 Times

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 1.—Sarah Wyckoff, 76 years of age, is dead today in the state prison after 42 years' imprisonment, during which she five times declined a pardon from as many governors and after she had lived to learn that a death bed confession had completely exonerated her of the charge for which she was sentenced. Forty-two years ago she entered the prison to serve a life sentence as the convicted accomplice in the murder of her husband, Wesley Wyckoff, in Alexander county, in the mountains of North Carolina. The convicted principal, a negro, was hanged. Three years yesterday afternoon found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury in the superior court.

Upon motion of the respondent's counsel a seven days' stay of execution was granted to provide for the filing of an appeal.

Young Adams, who served in the navy during the war, heard the verdict without show of emotion.

BUSINESS NOW LEADS

Has Displaced Ministry, Medicine and Law as Occupational Choice of College Graduates

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—"Business has displaced the ministry, medicine and the law as the occupational choice of a large and increasing percentage of college graduates," said Dean Walter Brett Donham of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration in his annual report yesterday.

"While schools of theology, medicine and law have been of recognized value for many years, until very recently no effective method of training for the transition from college to business has been devised. Yet this transition is unquestionably more difficult than a similar transition from the technical schools to engineering position," he stated.

"The busy practitioner of any profession has neither the time, the specialized training nor the equipment for instruction for beginners. This is particularly true of the business man."

Dean Donham called attention to the inadequate housing of the school of business administration and urged the need of a new building. He warned that the rapid growth of attendance probably will make it necessary in the near future to limit the number of students. The enrollment of all the collegiate business schools in the country prior to 1910, was so small that it was a negligible factor in our educational system," he continued. "After that year there was considerable growth, but the striking increase is in the year 1919-20. Total gains in the leading schools run into the thousands."

And Thomas Cashin Got Handsome Man's Prize

Many of the city's handsomest men were in Associate hall last night in response to the advertisement of the Pontiac Social Club that 500 good looking men were wanted to compete in a male beauty contest. The beauty prize, a diamond stickpin was awarded to Thomas Cashin by the judges who were Mr. Herron of the Hamel studio, Albert A. Cunningham of the Cunningham studio, and Mr. Douglas of the Douglas studio.

One would never think that there were so many handsome men in Lowell, or men who thought they were handsome. Associate hall was crowded to the doors and young women were out in large numbers to gaze upon Lowell's "Apollons," little of limb and beautiful of countenance.

All those participating in the special beauty contest had to take part in a beauty waltz before the judges. It did not take long for the judges to decide upon Thomas Cashin as the prize winner.

In a drawing contest after the beauty waltz, first prize, a diamond ring, was given to Miss Sadie Mutton and second prize a pair of cuff links, was given to Mr. Ingalls. The diamond ring and stickpin were donated by the Pontiac-Cotter company and the cuff links given by George Antonas.

The members of the Pontiac club who were in charge of the affair were: Peter J. McDermott, general manager; Manuel Melis, assistant general manager; John G. Sunderland, floor director; Samuel Dixon, assistant floor director; James Carroll, chief aid.

Have you paid your body to-day for the work it did yesterday?

The fact that the body must be paid for the work it does, is too often over-looked. It is important to remember that every day's activities consume a large amount of vital energy. This vital energy must be replaced—or paid back—otherwise you are living, day by day, upon a decreasing vitality. In other words, you are using up your vital energy quicker than your body can replace it. No one can continue to do this without getting weak, anaemic, nervous or run-down.

Thousands of men and women are Weak, Anaemic, Nervous, Depressed and Run-down largely because they have failed to pay the body for the work it does.

Women who should be healthy, rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed and vivacious—get weak, irritable, pale and nervous.

Men who should be strong, alert, vigorous and efficient—get nervous, brain-weary and run-down.

How to restore your vital energy—enrich your blood—strengthen your nerves—and promote vigor and vitality

In almost every case of weakness, anaemia, nervousness and run-down vitality there is a real shortage in the body of several mineral elements which are absolutely essential to the creation of vital power. These elements are, particularly, Iron, Calcium, Potassium, Sodium and Phosphorus. The shortage of these elements in the body is due to the fact that they have been used up in the production of vitality—and have not been replaced. But you can rapidly replace these elements by taking Wincarnis. Because Wincarnis contains all of them in appropriate proportions and agreeable form.

Thus Wincarnis enables you to pay your body for the work it does by restoring the very mineral elements the body needs to create vital energy—to make the blood rich and red—to strengthen the nerves—and to promote strength, vigor and endurance.

It is the failure to keep the body supplied with sufficient Iron, Calcium, Potassium, Sodium and Phosphorus that largely accounts for the continued suffering of thousands of weak, anaemic, nervous and run-down men and women.

Choose the right way to health

Get well—but get well in a logical way. Use great care in your choice. Remember this important fact—when the body requires a variety of mineral elements—it must have all of them. No amount of any single one will do. No instance is known in which a single element has been found to be excellent for making blood red. But no amount of iron alone will be sufficient when the body requires Iron, and Calcium and Potassium and Sodium and Phosphorus, as it does in the majority of cases of weakness, impoverished blood, nervousness and run-down vitality. Wincarnis contains all of these, because it is prepared especially for weak, anaemic, nervous and run-down men and women. Over 10,000 physicians have recommended Wincarnis. Your druggist has your bottle ready for you. Try just one bottle.

ICE CUTTING ON BAPTIST POND COMPLETED

Employees of the Daniel Gage Co., who for the past week have been cutting ice on Baptist pond in South Chelmsford, completed their work last evening and today it was stated that between 8000 and 9000 tons of 12-in. ice had been stored in the houses of the company in that district. The cutting on Spectacle lake at Littleton is expected to wind up tomorrow, at which time it is hoped between 12,000 and 15,000 tons of first quality ice will have been stored away.

The ice on the Merrimack river is a little over seven inches in thickness, and unless a hot wave should intervene, cutting on the river will start next week. Miss Matilda Gage, manager of the company, stated today that the ordinary harvest on the river is about 25,000 tons. The company is not running short of help, for every day hundreds of men call at the office in search of work. The wages of the ice cutters is about the same as last year, and no increase in the price of ice is anticipated.

MANY STEEL CONCERNS RESUME OPERATIONS

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—Many independent steel manufacturing concerns in the Pittsburgh district today increased operations on what executives were united in saying was a cautiously conservative basis after about six weeks in which operations have been entirely suspended or greatly curtailed. It was predicted that within a few days operation would be about 40 per cent. of capacity, with prospects of increased activity if conditions warranted.

Of the 55 independent blast furnaces of which reports were received by steel authorities here, 21 were in operation while six mills increased operations.

Some of the business which brought about resumption was for the export trade, one order being for $1,000,000 for steel towers to be used in a wireless installation at Osaka, Japan.

From points outside the immediate Pittsburgh district came similar reports of increased operation.

Many plants resumed operations under changed labor conditions. In some instances, wage reductions were accepted by the men, and in others the working time was reduced so as to bring operations within the limit of the eight-hour day and thus avoid time and a half pay for overtime.

SOCIAL GATHERING

A social gathering was held recently at the home of Miss Betty Snyder. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion in blue and pink. Plans for the evening were made by Mr. Harold M. Friedman, Master, Bernard Knopf, entertained with his original songs and dances. Mr. Edward Friedman made a big hit with his vocal solo. The exhibition dancing of Mr. A. Ziskind and Miss Cecelia Good was well received. Among those present were the Messrs. Betty Snyder, Florence Shapiro, Rosalie Cohen, Shirley Kalka, Florence Kien and Cecelia Good; Messrs. Harold Friedman, Samuel Goldman, Edward Friedman, Harold Green, Abraham Ziskind and Bernard Knopf. Refreshments were served and games were enjoyed by all.

EXCHANGE PROFESSOR

CAMBRIDGE, Feb. 1.—The appointment of Lawrence J. Henderson, biological chemist, as exchange professor to France, was announced by the corporation of Harvard university today. He will take the place of Professor Albert Bushnell Hart, the historian, who has found it impossible to make the trip to Europe this winter. Prof. Henderson is already at Grenoble, France, on leave of absence.

The supreme court of the state of Washington has fixed the minimum wage of women working in hotels and restaurants at $15 a week.

R. R. MEN APPEAL TO PRESIDENT WILSON

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—President Wilson was asked last night by representatives of seven labor unions to investigate the statement of Brigadier-General W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania lines, before the railway labor board that the railroads of the country must have wage readjustments or be in danger of bankruptcy, and if the statement were found true, to place the matter before congress and ask that body to enact remedial legislation immediately.

The union leaders, however, in their telegram to the president making the request, declared they did not believe the roads to be in the financial condition outlined by Gen. Atterbury. They charged that he had, by delivering what they termed "an ultimatum" to the labor board, "violated all decent proprieties, disregarded the transportation act and flouted existing agencies, such as the interstate commerce commission and even congress itself."

"Gen. Atterbury's obvious policy," the telegram said, "is to disrupt labor unions, turn public opinion against the employees and place wages on a pro-war basis so that railway profits may be enhanced when prosperity returns. The shipper would have to pay increased rates and the laborer would be exploited if Gen. Atterbury had his way."

The telegram asks President Wilson to take immediate steps to have all the evidence in the case presented to the interstate commerce commission and says that the union representatives were calling his attention to the matter only because "no stone should be left unturned to prevent such a catastrophe as outlined by Gen. Atterbury."

GO TO RESCUE OF COAL BARGE

SANDWICH, Feb. 1.—The storm which drove the empty coal barge Radnor and Oxford to the Cape Cod Canal breakwater yesterday, had abated today sufficiently to permit tugs to go to the rescue of the barge. The third barge of the tug Triton's string, The Haverford, after drifting to within 200 yards of the spot where her sister ships stranded, was riding safely at anchor. "The tug anticipated no difficulty in picking her up and towing her into the shelter of the canal."

The Radnor and the Oxford were being slowly pounded to pieces today. Wreckers, however, hoped to be able to salvage at least one of them if the weather continued to improve. The wind today was still blowing from the northeast but had moderated considerably.

HAD TERRIBLE COUGH AND NIGHT SWEATS

Cough about gone, eats and sleeps well and gained 15 pounds.

"In December, 1912, I had a fearful cough, and my physician ordered me to change climate immediately. I went to San Antonio, Texas, and entered a sanatorium. Left there and came to Oklahoma City in October, 1915. Had no appetite, could not sleep, had night sweats and was losing from one to three pounds a week. I also had catarrh of the bowels, which the doctors had been unable to relieve. Relatives tried me with cod liver oil, but I could not take it. I began to improve, slowly at first, but steadily. My weight has increased 15 pounds. I have no temperature, and my cough is about gone. I can eat heartily, sleep well and am working at my trade again."—V. W. Neff, 510 No. Dewey st., Oklahoma City, Okla.

A Well Known Woman's Testimony

Rome, N. Y.—"While ill with measles some years ago, I caught a severe cold and from that time on I had trouble with my bronchial tubes and with my stomach. I was in need of a tonic as well, when someone suggested that I try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It proved to be the very medicine my system required for it not only built up my health generally but it gave great relief to my bronchial tubes and stomach. I have never had stomach trouble since and only an occasional cough."—MRS. MARIE L. WILBUR, 121½ Bissell Ave. All druggists.

FIND CHARRED BODY IN ENGINE'S FIREBOX

WORCESTER, Feb. 1.—The charred remains of a man were found here yesterday in a firebox of a locomotive in the roundhouse of the Boston & Maine railroad. Disappearance of William O. Trudson, 27, of 1 Alder street, machinist at the roundhouse, led the police and medical examiner to believe that the remains are those of Trudson. It is thought Trudson had himself into the furnace.

About five years ago, while living in Hartford, he slashed his throat in an attempt at suicide and since then his speech has been affected.

OBSERVE FOUNING OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

The First Baptist church was the scene of the 10th anniversary of the founding of Christian Endeavor last evening, when more than 500 members and friends of the Lowell Christian Endeavor union heard an address on "The Supreme Hour" by Daniel A. Poling, L.L.D., of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. A banquet was another feature of the occasion.

Two-minute talks were delivered by Edward Babcock, pastor of the First Baptist church, Chester A. Nelson, chairman of the lookout committee of the Cape Anne Christian Endeavor union, Ernest A. Collins, president of the Haverhill union, Harold W. Pedder, vice president of the Haverhill union, Rev. John Singleton, pastor of the Lawrence St. Primitive Methodist Church and counselor of the Lowell union, Leo B. Stevens, president of the Essex County union, Russell J. Blair, president of the Middlesex County union and C. C. Hamilton, field manager of the Christian Endeavor World.

At the conclusion of the after-dinner speeches, a rally service was held in the auditorium. The guests were welcomed to the church by Miss Marie Amador, secretary of the First Baptist Christian Endeavor society, and Osmond E. Coburn, vice president of the Lowell union, replied for those present. The singing was in charge of Harry E. Hockman, industrial secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

Rev. John Singleton and Rev. Edw. Babcock led in a devotional service, and this was followed by an anthem sung by the Pilgrim quartet, comprising Harry Bailey, Herbert Waterhouse, Thomas Vennard and Gerald Miller. Roll call for Lowell was read by Miss Alice M. Dewey, secretary for this city. A resolution asking that moving pictures here be investigated was turned over to the citizenship committee. The resolutions were the work of the Highland Congregational society. President A. Edwin Wells, president of the Lowell union, presided during the program.

Dr. Poling in his address told how Christian Endeavor had its inception in the mind of Dr. Francis E. Clark, and how it now embraces more than four million members. A poem by the verses closed his address. The verses eulogized the spirit of C. E.

EX-GOV. PLEASANT'S PLAN

Proposes Insuring Suffrage Protection With Guarantee of White Supremacy In Louisiana

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 1.—Former Governor R. G. Pleasant of Shreveport, an appointee of Governor Parker in the forthcoming state constitutional convention, has proposed a plan for insuring suffrage protection with guarantee of white supremacy without limitations being directly specified as to race, color or sex.

He said today the proposed law would bar from the electorate that group of the world's inhabitants coming from the south of the 29th degree of north latitude, which, he stated, "is credited with none of the civilization of the world." Under this plan the electorate would be denied to a whole geographical class on account of its intellectual limitations and would be confined to persons whose ancestors developed civilization, he asserted.

CASE CONTINUED

When Judge Marr, 21, of St. John, N.B., and Clarence E. James appeared in the police court today, charged with improper conduct, the woman pleaded not guilty and charged James with a serious offense. James pleaded guilty to the improper conduct charge. The case was continued.

IRELAND NOT SECEDING

It is one thing to oppose the recognition of the Irish republic by the United States on legal grounds, but quite another to misrepresent actual conditions and even falsify the facts of history in an effort to trump up apparent arguments against any action looking to the recognition of the Irish republic.

Yet the latter course is the one taken by our neighbor, the "Centinel," when it attacks that because we were opposed to European powers recognizing the confederacy in our Civil war, we cannot logically favor the recognition of the Irish republic.

In talking that attitude the editor of the "Centinel" attacks logic to the winds and voices only the sentiments of Lloyd George and the Tory portion of the British press.

There is no parallel between the case of Ireland and that of the seceding southern states. The confederate states had voluntarily joined the Union and then decided to withdraw or to secede. Not so with Ireland, however. The Irish nation never joined the British union, so called, and cannot therefore secede from it. On the contrary, Ireland has vigorously protested and fought against that union ever since it was imposed upon her.

True, the British claim possession to Ireland under the "supposed right of conquest," first under Henry II in 1172; again under Cromwell in 1649; and again under William of Orange in 1690, and in order to give the imposed union an official existence a paper, England in the year 1801, by one of the most scandalous acts of corruption known to history, had the act of union passed transferring the government of Ireland to London, where it could be conducted more effectively in the interest of England.

For that act, the Irish people were not responsible. They had no part in the compact as England had the necessary number of votes printed and packed for the purpose. They were all her own minions.

Ever since that act was passed, the people of Ireland have protested against it and they have since led no fewer than five rebellions in order to overthrow their bondage to England.

In 1916 they declared for a republic and they have since overthrown the British courts and established a system of courts of their own. It is a mistake to suppose that the republic consists of what Lloyd George calls a "band of murderers" who attack the British police on the ground that they are invaders on the soil of Ireland. These men are not the republican army. It is true they have adopted guerrilla warfare; but every country fighting for freedom selects its own methods of warfare. Moreover, this army is backed by 90 per cent of the people, as that was the proportion of the electorate that sustained the Sinn Féin in the last election.

England, therefore, cannot claim that Ireland belongs to her by right of long continued and undisputed possession. Since it takes about 200,000 British soldiers, police and an array of distrustful troops going about applying the bomb and the torch to property, over two years to suppress the Sinn Féin republic and when even yet, the courts-martial are the only British courts now functioning in Ireland, it is evident that nothing but the might of England presents the republic from regularly performing all the functions of government.

Justice of Ireland's Claims Ignored

What seems to be the last sight of and ignored absolutely is the question of right and justice as between Ireland and England.

Undenially Ireland has absolute justice on her side in claiming the right to freedom for which she has struggled for seven hundred years. If her case has a parallel in American history, it is that of the colonies in asserting their right to freedom and independence and their taking up arms to cast off the British yoke. Fortunately for them, they were farther away from England than is Ireland, as otherwise they could not have won their freedom.

But as to the justice of their comparative claims, Ireland's case is much stronger than was that of the colonies because she has been immeasurably more oppressed and her claim is of longer standing. If compared with other nations that have achieved their freedom, Ireland's claim will also be sustained.

Neway, Denmark and Switzerland are all free nations and none of them has a population equal to that of Ireland. The area of Ireland is one-third greater than that of Belgium and Holland combined and also equal in area to that of France and Switzerland combined.

One of the reasons for Ireland's being a free nation and that one of a number of nations which would not be free is that Ireland is a small island and that she has a small population. Ireland is a small island and that she has a small population. Ireland is a small island and that she has a small population.

Against Disarmament

It is one thing to say that disarmament is a very serious matter, but it is quite another to say that it is a matter of life and death.

with the movement for disarmament. She dislikes the idea of a triple alliance for the reduction of armaments, particularly because it applies only to her and her principal ally, Japan. In addition to disarmament at this time would interfere with England's construction of warships on which she is busily engaged. If England agrees to disarm or to stop increasing her armament, the compact should apply to all parts of the empire as any naval units acquired by Canada or Australia belong primarily to England in case of war.

The present administration in Washington had better leave the question of disarmament to be settled by the incoming administration which will have to deal with it eventually. Just at present it is not so sure that disarmament would serve the interests of this nation.

The London Times is already out with a plan for the establishment of an "intercolonial fleet," the purpose of which is to bring the colonies into closer union. Whether this means simply a merchant fleet to engage in trade between the colonies is not clear; but Jamaica is mentioned as one of the colonies to receive special attention. This is probably another step to offset the possibilities of the American merchant marine.

TO BOOST NEW ENGLAND

In the interest of New England a movement has been started to make the city of Boston an objective point for American and European tourists. It is true that Boston has a great many attractions in addition to its historic interest. It seems that the efforts to make the port of Boston more influential as a shipping centre are not meeting with much success. If the establishment of a tourist bureau would help Boston, it would also help New England, whose interests are being slighted not only by the steamship lines, but also by commercial interests in congress and elsewhere. The south and the west are in competition with New England; and it appears they are maintaining a form of competition that calls for united action in self-defense on the part of all the New England states. Unless these states hang together and guard their common interests, they may lose their supremacy in various important industries in which the south and the west are now ambitious rivals.

THE POOL ROOMS

As it appears that some of the pool rooms of Lowell are little better than "hang-outs" for youths who live by their wits, it is time the police adopted some method of keeping track of the habits of such places. They should have some means of singling out the suspicious characters who visit the pool rooms in order to keep track of them. Of course, with the great number of people at present unemployed, no reflection can be cast upon the honest, law-abiding people who want to spend a few hours in a pool room. But the dangerous characters mix in with these, and thus bring the best pool rooms into disrepute. The Sun has repeatedly pointed out the dangers to which young men are exposed in visiting some of these places in which the pool tables are but a cloak to cover various forms of gambling.

Advance Announcement

A business man advertised for an office boy. The next morning there were some 50 boys in line. He was about to begin examining the applicants when his stenographer handed him a card on which was scribbled: "Don't do anything until you see me. I'm the last kid in the line, but I'm telling you I'm there with the goods."

The Shortest Month

In the old days when the Roman emperors had nothing else to worry about, they did something to the calendar. And February, it appeared, was a victim. Originally this perfectly good month had 30 days in leap years and 29 in other years. February is from the Latin meaning "to purify." It was the custom of the Romans to celebrate the festival of purification in February. Julius Caesar named July in his own honor—he saw to it there were 31 days in it. Then along came Augustus, and a month was named for him, also. But August had only 29 days. So Augustus looked around and picked out February, which had no special day to defend it. He just took a day off February and added to his own month. That's why February ordinarily has 28 days, and why August has 31. In keeping with the dignity of its imperious namesake.

For man, and longs to lend him aid

A thinking back a bit I see, I've heard that whilst the war was on, and long and lots of doctors came, that folks used former days. For therapeutic means and ways. The simple remedies once more came forth to heal the sick and sore. The doctors say, "The herb was made for man."

Several of the men who pleaded not guilty hotly contested the testimony of the arresting officers. Sergeant Nicholas Mulhall, who rode of his own volition to the police station in the patrol "to get his friends out," was arrested when he arrived there. He claimed that he was perfectly sober. Daniel Kiernan, who was Mulhall's companion in the expedition to rescue their friends, was also taken into custody when the station was reached. He asserted his sobriety, although admitting having had a few drinks. Cornelius O'Brien strenuously denied his alleged insipid condition, and stated that he had been at his home until 10:30 p.m. when he went to the station for the train. Here he said, he was taking care of a comrade when he was locked up. The officers could not remember O'Brien individually, but declared that every soldier arrested had been under the influence of liquor.

Edward J. Crowell questioned the officer who claimed to have arrested him. "Did you arrest me at the station last night?" he asked. "Yes," was the reply. "No," said Crowell. "I was pulled in by the street car after the patrol had left the station." The officer then admitted that he had been mistaken, and that Crowell was arrested elsewhere than at the station.

"We want to get these facts straight," said Judge Enright. "We don't want to find an innocent man guilty. Just because he was with a bunch of soldiers who were intoxicated."

Joseph Boulanger, the officers said, diffused an aroma of moonshine, and was unsteady on his feet. But Boulanger averred that he had never touched a drop of liquor in his life, and offered to procure witnesses who would attest this assertion. Andrew Zeithes, accused of being unsteady on his feet and also aromatic with liquor, said "I took care of two men. That's sober I guess." He was released until 10:30 p.m. Of course, the officers could not positively testify that the arrested men were under the influence of spirits.

Officers who pleaded not guilty were John L. Bratton and Sergeant John P. McGinn.

Kane, on whom a Colt army automatic was found, now appeared on the charges of unlawfully carrying a gun. He admitted having the weapon, but said he had taken it from McGinn, who was "flashing it rather freely."

McGinn, who had remained silent, now admitted on being questioned that he had brought the gun from camp without authorization. "I was to take some prisoners away today; that's why I had it," he said. The cartridge clip on the gun was missing, and Kane said he did not know this, but he believed McGinn of it. Kane said it was his duty as a non-commissioned officer to take any weapon from another enlisted man who did not seem capable of keeping it in his possession without menacing others. He was found not guilty on the charge, and pleaded guilty to the drunkenness charge.

"Now tell the truth. Where did you get this liquor?" asked Judge Enright. All the defendants united in saying that they had purchased it from civilians who approached them on the street. One of the soldiers told of a man asking him $3 a quart. "I gave him $1 for the first bottle," he said, "and I don't give him anything for the second."

"There has got to be some check put on you men," declared Judge Enright, in placing the cases on the docket. "There has been much trouble and disturbance due to your actions in this city. However, as you are all first offenders, I am going to let you go this time without giving you a record. But the officers were perfectly justified in placing you under arrest. You are responsible for the trouble in this city, and in the railroad station, which in your right senses you would not allow any man to use in the presence of your mothers or sisters."

Militia Called Out

Paquin pleaded guilty. Murphy, who hails from Providence, R. I., has been seven years in the service, while Patrick Ganley, of the same city, a lad of 17 years, enlisted in the army two months ago. Albert Paquin is also a minor, being 18 years of age, and three months in the service. He was asked by Judge Enright whether he had been before the court before, and he replied in the affirmative, but added smilingly that it was for stealing apples.

Several of the men who pleaded not guilty hotly contested the testimony of the arresting officers. Sergeant Nicholas Mulhall, who rode of his own volition to the police station in the patrol "to get his friends out," was arrested when he arrived there. He claimed that he was perfectly sober. Officers who pleaded not guilty were John L. Bratton and Sergeant John P. McGinn.

Kane, on whom a Colt army automatic was found, now appeared on the charges of unlawfully carrying a gun. He admitted having the weapon, but said he had taken it from McGinn, who was "flashing it rather freely."

McGinn, who had remained silent, now admitted on being questioned that he had brought the gun from camp without authorization. "I was to take some prisoners away today; that's why I had it," he said. The cartridge clip on the gun was missing, and Kane said he did not know this, but he believed McGinn of it. Kane said it was his duty as a non-commissioned officer to take any weapon from another enlisted man who did not seem capable of keeping it in his possession without menacing others. He was found not guilty on the charge, and pleaded guilty to the drunkenness charge.

"Now tell the truth. Where did you get this liquor?" asked Judge Enright. All the defendants united in saying that they had purchased it from civilians who approached them on the street. One of the soldiers told of a man asking him $3 a quart. "I gave him $1 for the first bottle," he said, "and I don't give him anything for the second."

"There has got to be some check put on you men," declared Judge Enright, in placing the cases on the docket. "There has been much trouble and disturbance due to your actions in this city. However, as you are all first offenders, I am going to let you go this time without giving you a record. But the officers were perfectly justified in placing you under arrest. You are responsible for the trouble in this city, and in the railroad station, which in your right senses you would not allow any man to use in the presence of your mothers or sisters."

FORDNEY TARIFF BILL MRS. HARDING BUSY

Measure Has Begun to Re-semble Wooden Ship Adrift in Barnacle-Infested Sea

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Fordney emergency tariff bill, awaiting action in the senate, has begun to resemble a wooden ship adrift in a barnacle-infested sea, according to its opponents. It is being held up by its opponents and its friends, and the latter began to see visions of it sinking beneath the waves from the weight imposed.

The latest acquirers to the bill in the form of amendments appeared today in proposals to place an import duty on sunflower seed and on holly. Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, sponsored the sunflower seed tariff, and Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, presented the amendment which would protect America's holly industry.

The bill as it left the house provided for duties on about a score of products. Even senate clerks were unable to estimate the number of commodities that would be subject to additional tariff levies should all the amendments offered since the measure reached that body be adopted.

In the meantime the bill faced another round of debate today, some senators said probably its last full day, for tomorrow, the senate will be called upon to vote on the petition for cloture or limitation of debate, presented yesterday by Chairman Pearson of the finance committee, after unanimous consent for a vote on the bill Feb. 15 had met with objection. To close down partially on debate and proceed to a vote on the bill will require approval of two-thirds of the senate and neither Republicans nor Democrats are in a position to secure such a vote.

More Amendments
WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Another flock of amendments to the emergency tariff bill was offered today in the senate.

After a ruling by Vice-President Marshall that all amendments had to be presented and read before the vote tomorrow on cloture, the senate was feverish activity among the clerks who were called upon to read both old and new changes.

STOCK MARKET

IMPOSSIBLE FOR GERMANY TO PAY

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Dr. Walter Simons, the German foreign minister, will tell the Reichstag at its session this afternoon, the Reischtagstag states that Germany cannot subscribe to the allied reparations demands, on the ground that they are not possible of fulfillment.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Heavy tonnage marked the opening of today's stock market, fresh selling being impelled by the heavy selling in the call money. Oil was subjected to special pressure, as were also American Hide & Leather preferred and American Smelting. The directors of the company have decided to take action on dividends during the day.

Details became more irregular in the first hour, the uncertain money market causing further restraint. The surprise of the market was, however, an initial rise of 7 per cent. Instead of yesterday's maximum of 8 per cent was posted. This had little effect, selling of popular issues proceeding in absence of more than moderate support. General Asphalt and Mexican Petroleum led the more prominent stocks and independent steels also eased. Further readjustment of the market was indicated by a rise in refined sugars to 7 cents. Exchange continued to weaken, the reaction extending to French, Belgian and German securities.

The trend of prices was steadily downwards at mid-day. Further reactions were precipitated by the passing of the dividend of American Hide & Leather. The reaction was offset by the regular American Smelting dividend. High grade rails were involved in the reaction. Canadian Pacific and Delaware Lackawanna & Western.

SAYS BRITISH LABOR WILL FREE IRELAND

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—The very moment a labor government comes into power in England, Ireland will be free.

This opinion was given at the Boston City Club last night by Dr. James J. Walsh of Fordham university. New York, who spoke at the regular City Club forum meeting on "What Civilization Owes to Ireland."

For an hour Dr. Walsh spoke on the history of Ireland and the Irish people, tracing their achievements from the beginning of the first century, B.C. down to the present day. He said that in his opinion we are at the climax of our present civilization.

"We have been peering holes in our civilization for the past few years," said Dr. Walsh, "and some of our historians doubt that it will hold water any more, and believe that it is going to come crashing down with the consequent supremacy of the yellow races."

He continued along this line by comparing present day civilization with that of the Roman empire before its fall.

In his discussion of Ireland and the Irish people, Dr. Walsh pointed out that the Irish are the oldest pure nationality in Europe today and said that 75 per cent of them are of stock which has been in Ireland for nearly 3000 years.

He took up the development of literature by the Irish, pointing out that the so-called Irish "hugue" is really the true pronunciation of the English language at the time of Queen Elizabeth. He illustrated this by taking examples from Shakespeare.

In discussing the Sinn Fein he pointed out that Sinn Fein could not be obeyed in all Ireland except Ulster and that crime in Erin was a negligible quantity.

The question period lasted for more than an hour. In answer to questions asked, Dr. Walsh said that only one of the reasons for the Irish not having helped for help from America was the fact that Ireland gave this country as much help against England at the time of the Revolution and that we did not hesitate to intervene when atrocities were being practiced by Spain in Cuba.

He said that the Irish people are seriously shaking the stability of the British government, "though they do not seem to know it yet."

Asked if he believed that any "organized murder" was being carried on by the Sinn Fein, Dr. Walsh answered, "There are no murders in Ireland."

He said it would be a mistake for Ireland to accept two parliaments, as that would split the country, and he pointed to the fact that in 1851 we were not willing to let the southern states secede.

He said the world war was but the first act in the great drama of civilization, that we are seeing the second act now, and that there are three acts yet to come. "I don't believe we are done with war, either," he said.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—A bill to amend the law relating to the payment of unemployment benefits to workers, which will be introduced in the legislature this week.

The measure was prepared by Prof. John R. Commons of the department of economics at the University of Wisconsin.

It would require employers to form mutual insurance companies and apply benefits to the workers they discharge at the rate of $1.50 a day for adult men and women, and 75 cents a day for boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 18.

The unemployed, provided they had worked at least 25 weeks, would be entitled to benefits for a maximum period of 13 weeks on the basis of one week for every four weeks of work.

Workers who are not entitled to benefits and farm laborers are also exempt.

Explaining his bill, Prof. Commons recently told the local Rotary club that fear of unemployment is the most serious handicap to the worker's ability to remove that fear, he said, and labor difficulties would be reduced and production speeded up.

While his bill is designed primarily as an insurance, its real effect, he declared, would be to force employers to adjust their work so as to eliminate slack periods and depression in order to escape the burden of insurance benefits.

WHITE POLE AT ASSOCIATE HALL
After much agitation and a recent suggestion in the "Man About Town" column of The Sun, the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company has provided a white signal pole in front of the Associate Hall building. The pole was painted yesterday.

Many people have contended that a white pole should be in front of the entrance to Associate Hall so that people attending entertainments or dances in the hall could board cars or leave them directly in front of the hall. If they wished. Formerly, those riding up Merrimack street to Associate Hall had to ride up past Worthington street to the hall and walk back. In coming down Merrimack street to the hall, the patrons would have to walk from the hall entrance down to Dutton street to board an electric car. Manager Thomas Lora considered a stop in front of the hall a great convenience and thought the suggestion of The Sun a good one.

NATURALIZATION SESSION
Although there was no great rush at the naturalization session which was held at the local courthouse this morning, Clerk William C. Dillingham was kept busy receiving and filing second papers. There were about 50 people in the hall when the clerk arrived, and each man was accompanied by two witnesses, who at the regular court naturalization session will come for them as being of the type of men who should be granted the privileges of citizenship. There were four nationalities represented at this morning's session. French, Polish, German and English. The French and English predominating. It was expected at noon that this afternoon the number of applicants would be as large as this morning. Tomorrow, Mr. Dillingham will receive the first and second papers and on Thursday first papers. If business warrants it, Mr. Dillingham said, he would return to Lowell first and second papers.

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—Moses Greenough, a robber, gave battle to two hold-up men in his shop at 281 Shawmut avenue yesterday afternoon. Using an iron pipe as a weapon, he knocked a revolver from the hand of one of the desperadoes and then grappled with the robber, meanwhile calling for help.

KILLS HOLD-UP MAN LITTLE IMPROVEMENT IN LABOR SITUATION

Collector Attacked By Armed Robber Takes Gun Away and Shoots Assailant

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 1.—Held up at the point of a gun in the narrow stairway of his home, Orrie Lane, 25 years old, assistant superintendent of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company in the Providence district yesterday grappled with the hold-up man, wrestled his gun from him and turning it on the robber shot him dead.

Among Lane's duties was the collection each day of the receipts from the stores of A. P. stores. He had collected $200 from a chain of 17 of these stores during the morning and at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon arrived at his home, at 257 Main street, in the Olneyville district of the city. He carried the money with him in a leather bag.

Lane lives on the third floor of a three-story house and after closing his door he went down the narrow stairway to the street. He had descended one flight and was passing through the corridor to the bottom flight when he heard footsteps coming up the stairs. He turned and saw a man coming up the stairs. He was about to step from the top of the stairway to the landing.

As Lane met him the man shouted: "Hands up!" Lane says he was then suddenly confronted by the man, who raised his hands. The man then repeated the order, Lane told the police. With the second command the man flashed into view and Lane says he made a jump for the man and seized the gun, wrestling from the man's grasp.

The stranger, according to Lane, immediately began beating him in the face and over the head with his fists, while Lane holding the bag of money in his left hand, tried to keep him off with the butt of the gun. Failing to beat him off, Lane said he pulled the trigger. The bullet hit the stranger in the leg, and according to Lane, he turned and ran down the stairs.

Lane told the police that by that time he was excited and again fired and hit the stranger in the back of the head as he was fleeing down the stairs. The man fell in a heap at the foot of the stairs.

During the scuffle Lane had been crying out for help and his wife, crossing, hearing the shouting, rushed out of her apartment and started down the stairs. She arrived at the top of the first flight just after the second shot had been fired and the stranger had dropped dead at the foot of the stairs.

Lane rushed back to his apartment and called the police. In a short time the police and Medical Examiner Dr. A. H. Longfellow arrived. The man was dead and according to the police had evidently died from the effects of the bullet which struck him in the back of the head.

A thorough examination of the dead man failed to reveal his identity and the police finally took finger prints in an attempt to identify him either in city and police files.

The dead man was about 22 years old, weighed 150 pounds and was five feet seven inches tall. He had gray eyes, excellent teeth, smooth, full face, medium light hair, broad forehead. He wore a dark blue suit which had been bought in a local store.

He also wore a black overcoat with belt, black silk socks, black lace shoes that had been dyed, and a brown coat. In his pocket was a white handkerchief with black polka dots.

In his pockets were found five loaded cartridges of the same calibre and make as those in the .35 calibre revolver that Lane wrestled from him. A brand new blacklock was also found, as was a blue bandanna handkerchief, which the police say was folded in the shape of a mask to be used for the face.

The police believe the man apparently was not expecting to meet Lane so suddenly in the stairway, and was now prepared for the hold-up. The police also are of the opinion that he had an accomplice waiting outside with an automobile, in which the loot was to have been taken away had the robbery been carried out as apparently planned.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

THIS SLIPPER OF FORGETFULNESS

Again Nick and Nancy were prisoners of the wicked Rosamund. This time they were trying to prevent them from getting to the South Pole and the iceberg was nothing more or less than his own great ice-palace which he had caused to break away from the ice-field at the North Pole and come floating through the ocean.

And the Jinn had turned himself into a great white polar bear.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Industrial operations have not increased sufficiently to effect a material reduction in the widespread unemployment prevalent a month ago, according to the review of business and financial conditions of the country for January issued last night by the Federal Reserve board.

A slight increase in the activity of leading New England industries during the month probably has brought a measure of relief there, the review said, but in the south and west the situation has become more acute. In the San Francisco district, previously slightly affected, the board reports that employment to be abnormally great for this season.

Wage reductions have continued, the board said, and the curtailment has spread to sections of the country where wage rates have hitherto been maintained at high levels. About 150,000 textile workers in New England have suffered wage cuts averaging 23 per cent, the review added, and within reductions in the boot and shoe industry have not been so large, they have been extensive.

Some increase in the demand for labor in Massachusetts was noted in January, but the Boston employment office informed the board that the number of applicants was the greatest on record during the first days of the month.

Unemployment in the New York district increased by about 4 per cent in January, the review said. Unemployment was widespread among longshoremen, freight handlers, dock workers and seamen.

In the Philadelphia district unemployment was widespread among longshoremen, freight handlers, dock workers and seamen.

In the Philadelphia district unemployment is prevalent, the board reported, as a result of the continuance of shut-downs of plants, or curtailment of operations in many lines of industry.

Textile mills in the Richmond district resumed work in January, but in the building trades and in the ranks of unskilled labor, the review said, a serious lack of employment existed there.

The number of unemployed has increased decidedly in the Atlanta district.

Unemployment became more pronounced in the St. Louis district during the month. In the Minneapolis district unemployment is increasing.

With the exception of San Francisco, conditions in California are not unfavorable.

Continued decrease in wholesale trade activity, particularly in the southern and southwestern sections of the country, was reported by the board but the situation in retail trade there was characterized by considerable buying of a careful and discriminatory nature.

Pieces of certain staples, notably grain, cotton and other agricultural products, rose early in January, but later in the month declined again. Particularly the month has been encouraging, the board declared.

In private finance, the board said, the month has been a period of improvement of value in most classes of securities. Although all sales have declined since the first of January, a continuation of high levels of interest.

LLOYD GEORGE TO VISIT PALESTINE

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(Glasgow Telegraph.)—Premier Lloyd George will visit Palestine in the spring, the Evening Standard says.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA

At a meeting of the drive committee of the local courts of Foresters of America held in Old Fellows hall, Middlesex street, Sunday morning, the committee's report was accepted as one of progress. A communication from the grand court officers visiting the workers success in their endeavor, and extending their felicitations for the great work already accomplished, was read. The grand court officers also accepted the invitation to be present at the big meeting to be held Sunday afternoon, February 6, at 3:30 o'clock, and every member is earnestly requested to be present.

The captain of the grand court gave notice that he wants to meet all ex-servicemen of the order to appear personally, fail at next Sunday's meeting. Reports from the various sub-committees were read and routine business was transacted.

my dear," she said. "So! I shall slip off your shoes and stroke your foot with my warm hands. No! And then I shall put on these nice red felt slippers instead. Isn't that better?"

Nancy nodded. "Yes, thank you, indeed it is," she said.

It was done so quickly that Nick could not interfere. It was too late to warn Nancy now. Of course he could have wished himself out of that at once, but he never once thought of leaving his sister alone. No, he must stay with her always.

But he had known what the little red felt slippers were, he would not have allowed the old woman to take his own Green Shoes away, nor to place a pair on his own feet, like those she had given to Nancy.

They were the slippers of forgetfulness, and instantly the twins forgot about their errand.

ing through the ocean.

And the Jinn had turned himself into a great white polar bear.

As soon as the twins had gone through the trapdoor in the roof and descended the narrow stairway into the attic, however, the Jinn changed from a bear into an old wizard who could take any form he wished.

Nick knew now that their host was a very old wizard, and he was about to change the twins into mice, and instantly the twins forgot about their errand.

FORMAL APOLOGY ON BERGDOLL CASE

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Brig. Gen. Henry T. Allen, commander of the American army of occupation on the Rhine, has made a formal apology to both the Berlin government and the government of Baden for the recent attempt by men connected with American forces to take into custody Grover Bergdoll, American draft evader, and his chauffeur, Isaac Stecher, says an official statement, issued by the government here yesterday.

The statement says that Col. Stone, acting on orders from Gen. Allen, called on the imperial commissioner for the occupied Rhine area and declared Gen. Allen desired to make a formal apology to the imperial German and Baden governments for the attempt to arrest Bergdoll on Baden territory. Through his official representatives, the communication states, Gen. Allen declared he had given no orders for the attempt against Bergdoll, which he greatly deplored.

The order for Bergdoll's arrest, Gen. Allen stated, was issued by the provost marshal in Cologne, who only recently arrived in Germany and who was under the impression that Bergdoll was sojourning in the French zone of the occupied area.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The war department yesterday finally conceded that it had official information that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, wealthy Philadelphia draft evader, was in Germany.

O'CALLAGHAN IS RE-ELECTED MAYOR

Towards the close of the meeting a police force arrived and arrested three of the afternoon and seven councilmen, taking them away to the barracks. The prisoners indulged in good-humored songs on the way.

CAMPAIGN TO MAKE SWITZERLAND DRY

GENEVA, Feb. 1.—A campaign to make Switzerland dry has been undertaken by the Swiss Anti-Alcoholic League. Its first step, it is announced, will be to demand a federal referendum authorizing the Swiss cantons to exercise local option.

The prohibitionist leaders here say that recent unofficial balloting indicated that a large number of the cantons would vote to become dry if the issue were presented to them.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR PROFITEERING

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Profiteering and hoarding are some points with the French. The head of a firm that charged 127 francs for repairing an old stove has just been sentenced to a month in prison, to pay a fine of 1,000 francs and to have the sentence posted at the firm's door for seven days. An expert appraised the value of the repairs at 27 francs.

LINCOLN PROCLAMATION BY GOV. CHANNING COX

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—Gov. Cox yesterday issued a proclamation setting apart Feb. 12 as Lincoln day, with the recommendation that it be "appropriately observed in the churches, in the schools, by the fireside and wherever our people come together."

In this proclamation Gov. Cox paid tribute to the memory of Lincoln as follows:

"One hundred and twelve years ago a humble mother in a lonely cabin gave birth to a boy. That boy was reared in poverty and schooled in adversity. Such a one would have deserved the verdict of well done had he lived a life of quiet usefulness and left to his children the legacy of a good name. But rather he was called to lead a people in their time of greatest trial. He did not fail them. He led them through the wilderness of doubt and despair to the heights of glory. Alas, the nation he loved was not in all things. He dared to be honest with himself. He saw the right and he fought for the right. His words, sifted by the winds of destiny, reveal to us today, as they did to those who heard them from his lips, the meaning of our institutions and the purpose of a free people. His life given in the service of his fellowmen taught anew the beauty of truth. Because of what he did and because of what he was his memory is the priceless possession of a grateful people. We do well to pause and in the quiet of our hearts to meet the challenge which the life and work of Abraham Lincoln presents as strongly now as on the day he died."

"Traveller,
Go, if you can, and describe
The sublime reward of such merit."

Install Pastor of All Souls Continued

The installation prayer, Dr. Elliot is the father-in-law of Rev. Mr. McGiffert.

A Presbyterian divine, Rev. Dr. Henry Stearns Coffin of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church of New York city, and one of the leading Presbyterians in the United States, gave the sermon. Dr. Coffin worked with Rev. Mr. McGiffert during the latter's seminary training.

"The present church effort is but the reiteration of an age-old problem of how to solve human existence," said Dr. McGiffert, Sr., in his charge. He expressed high hopes for the success of the epochal religious venture, as did, in fact, all who spoke.

The right hand of fellowship was extended by Rev. Arthur G. Lyon, pastor of the Pawtucket Congregational church of Lowell and the invocation at the installation service was given by Rev. E. B. Cram, pastor of the First Unitarian church of Ayer. Rev. Edward D. Eaton, D.D., of New York city read the installation scriptures, and the charge to the people came from Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham, D.D., pastor of the Arlington Street Unitarian church of Boston.

Rev. Dr. Hawkins Presided

Rev. Dr. Chauncey J. Hawkins, pastor of the First Congregational church of this city, who was the moderator of the council, presided at the evening installation service. The church long before the hour of the service, Mrs. Helen C. Taylor, organist of the church, gave a brief recital during this interval. The music on the program was given by the regular church choir led by Albert Edmund Brown. The minutes of the council session of the afternoon were read by Rev. E. W. A. Johnston, pastor of the District Centre Congregational church and the program as outlined above was carried out.

The installation sermon, delivered by Rev. Dr. Coffin, was based on a critical analysis of the efforts of humanity to solve its problems from the first days of existence. He took his text from the Epistle to the Hebrews, 12th chapter, third verse: "Consider Him who endured such contradiction."

The thought of the sermon was that the redemption of humanity has resulted from the process of association. In developing the thought the text was drawn upon to show that association always brings with it contradiction and that endurance of contradiction and its resulting friction is part of the teaching of Jesus and part of the test applied to the greater efforts of humanity.

He divided the recurrent efforts of humanity to solve its chief problems into three classes. The first effort has always been that of regulation. In the Garden of Eden regulation was the method of governing and it failed. The second effort, as shown by the earliest history, came in the way of segregation, as was evident in the events that followed the flood when humanity sought to establish itself and to secure progress through segregating into sections and from whence came the races of peoples. The actual redemption came by association by contact, rather than by these other methods. Jesus Christ sought to influence mankind by the closest contact. His 12 apostles were brought into the most intimate contact with him and although this ended in the tragedy of his crucifixion, it was the only way of redemption and redemption actually came.

The speaker pointed out how these same three types of effort prevailed in the history of our own country. At the outset, when the nation was first formed, it was regulation that was tried. Fear prevailed as to the future and there was panic over the possibilities of national wreck. So that regulating laws were enacted one after another. Segregation as a second method soon followed and the national policy of isolation prevailed for many years, only to fail utterly in these recent years when a Balkan policy of isolationism was followed. These same three methods of seeking redemption prevailed in industry in the United States, gave the sermon. Dr. Coffin worked with Rev. Mr. McGiffert during the latter's seminary training.

"The present church effort is but the reiteration of an age-old problem of how to solve human existence," said Dr. McGiffert, Sr., in his charge. He expressed high hopes for the success of the epochal religious venture, as did, in fact, all who spoke.

The right hand of fellowship was extended by Rev. Arthur G. Lyon, pastor of the Pawtucket Congregational church of Lowell and the invocation at the installation service was given by Rev. E. B. Cram, pastor of the First Unitarian church of Ayer. Rev. Edward D. Eaton, D.D., of New York city read the installation scriptures, and the charge to the people came from Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham, D.D., pastor of the Arlington Street Unitarian church of Boston.

Rev. Dr. Hawkins Presided

Rev. Dr. Chauncey J. Hawkins, pastor of the First Congregational church of this city, who was the moderator of the council, presided at the evening installation service. The church long before the hour of the service, Mrs. Helen C. Taylor, organist of the church, gave a brief recital during this interval. The music on the program was given by the regular church choir led by Albert Edmund Brown. The minutes of the council session of the afternoon were read by Rev. E. W. A. Johnston, pastor of the District Centre Congregational church and the program as outlined above was carried out.

The installation sermon, delivered by Rev. Dr. Coffin, was based on a critical analysis of the efforts of humanity to solve its problems from the first days of existence. He took his text from the Epistle to the Hebrews, 12th chapter, third verse: "Consider Him who endured such contradiction."

another presentation of one of Gilbert and Sullivan's perennially delightful operas, perhaps "Pinafore," "Iolanthe," "Huddlesford," or "The Yeoman of the Guard."

Mayor Was There

A word about the audience. The municipal government was represented in full force. Mayor Perry D. Thompson, and Mrs. Thompson, sat in a box, and if the house had been paged probably a special meeting of the municipal council could have been summoned to the spot. There were school teachers there, of course, and there were many of them. Society with a big S was there, and municipal officials, instructors and society maids and dames all entered thoroughly into the spirit of the melody and the mirth that started with the appearance of Fred O. Hunt at the director's stand.

Many a swartly wild eyed, long-haired, graying German has held the director's baton at performances of grand opera in the Metropolitan or Boston Opera house who possessed far less delicacy of musical interpretation was in high feather as a fun maker. The audience applauded one feature of his performance and it seemed to grow loud. On his "little list" he has some things and people with Lowell associations.

Joseph P. Donahue, as Pook-Bah, was one of the props of the evening's performance. His humor was unctuous and his singing was good. Morton A. Sturtevant made a sufficiently dignified and altogether likeable Mikado. James McDonald was only up to the mark with his associates as Pish-Tush. Louis Beaulieu made all that could be made out of the part of an attendant to the Mikado. Frances R. H. Leggat and Alice M. Dacey as Pishi-Sing and Peep-Bah, were pretty to look upon, made excellent foils for their sister, Yum Yum, and sang with exceptional skill.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the work of the members of the chorus.

Pictures Scenes in Nippon

The scenery pictured delightfully the scenes of Nippon without so much obstructive detail as unnecessarily to clutter up the stage. The costumes—the costumes. They were picturesque; they were beautiful; they were artistic. More than that they had been selected with an eye trained to artistic combinations. With the whole cast on the stage there was a color and a life to feast upon and admire.

The musical part of the performance was splendidly done. Only once or twice was there a noticeable wandering from the key that was wholly excusable. Indeed it is hard to realize that out of the ordinary walks of life

LOWELL HIGH WILL HAVE TO GO SOME

Lowell high is not expected to have an easy time with St. John's preparatory school track team in the local high school track next Saturday night. The visitors have not yet filled their list of entries with James Conway, athletic director for the local school, but the agreement already made between the two schools calls for a program of nine events. In addition to the regular events the broad jump and the hurdles will be included to provide additional excitement.

It is difficult to judge just what quality team St. John's school has this year for the meet next Saturday night with Lowell, but the first on this year's schedule, or the past two years, they have not had a track team, so that to a great extent many of the Lowell boys are new material, unless they include men from other high schools in the state.

Sufficient competition is assured the Lowell track men, put them in charge for the remaining contests of the season with the best teams of the state, including Brookline high, Lynn classical high and Boston college high school.

There will be some changes in the Lowell entries with St. John's, but Mr. Conway has not yet made them out. In the broad jump, in which Lowell is not any too well experienced, Norman Allen of the football eleven, will be the mainstay. The hurdles will not be held until the final contest, as the Lowell team is a star at topping the hurdles.

Under Cost Sale Is Proving Big Success

Response to the Merrimack Clothing Co. Final Crash Buying Public.

Never has the buying public of Lowell and vicinity responded so enthusiastically as it has to the "Under Cost Sale" being conducted by the Merrimack Clothing Company.

And it is not to be marvelled at. The prices quoted are positively the lowest in the east. Think of getting a $5 suit or overcoat for $2.50, or a $10 suit or overcoat for $5.00. These are the prices that are being offered.

There are goods of known quality, excellent styles, and the prices are so low that it is almost impossible to believe that the goods are really as good as they are.

It is a great opportunity for the buying public to get the goods they need at a price that is almost unbelievable. The goods are of known quality, and the prices are so low that it is almost impossible to believe that the goods are really as good as they are.
